WHEN SHALL THEY CLOSE

The discussion at Monday night's meeting of Town Council relative to establishing closing hours to govern the fruit trade raises an old debated and somewhat contentious point. . . . Has anyone the right to tell anyone else how long he shall work in promoting the interests of his own business?

Bylaws governing the fruit and grocery trade are under the control of Town Council and that is the reason the matter was brought up at their meeting. It was apparent from the discussion that even members of Council were doubtful as to whether they should continue to support legislation governing retail trades in respect to hours of business. Some even suggested that Council should be his hands of the matter and leave it up to the business people involved to iron out their own problems. This would probably mean that the business men affected could get together and try and arrive at an amicable arrangement.

This paper has contended in the past that it is up to the individual business operator to determine how many hours he shall devote to his trade. Location, business conditions, etc., are the factors which obviously must determine how little or how much time he should devote to managing his enterprise a success. For example, a man in business on Kent St. may be able to garner in enough dollars in eight hours operations to keep his profit and loss account in fine fettle while a businessman on a busy street may require considerably more time to achieve the desired results. For this reason it is hard to see how a rigid ordinance can be justly applied.

FOOD AND FAMINE

The Peking radio has announced that there are sixteen million Chinese in North China who are starving. There has been a serious crop failure. In Indo-China, from which China can usually import rice, there has been a civil war and no rice for export is available. In Burma, the government has taken over the rice and there is no money, so that Burma, too, is unable to export. China is in a sorry plight.

We have plenty of food on this continent. Millions of bushels of potatoes are being sold at give-away prices for feed. Other hundreds of millions of dozens of eggs are in storage. Millions, a reliable Baptist magazine, says that the corn crop this year is 3,377,790,000 bushels, almost four times the ten-year average of 1938-47. The United States Government had to supply 2,300 Quonset huts to enable farmers to store their corn. At Ottumwa, Iowa, a huge airport hangar was commandeered to store 245,000 bushels harvested there. "In our needy world while millions starve in Asia go to bed hungry in Europe, huddled make-shift hovels in war-bombarded cities, American food is shipped to Chinese camps rescued from communists, and precious housing is supplied to store corn."

Canada we have food in abundance, too. A report from Ottawa suggests that the government will be forced to sell at give-away prices 10 million pounds of butter in order to make way for next year's stock. Well that is all to the good. Sharing is a Christian privilege and responsibility. If we on this continent have more than we need, and there is every evidence that we have, then it were better for our own souls, say nothing of the souls of others, that we should simply give it to those who need it most.

Gelling Rid of A Tapeworm

As students who were taught that the way to remove a tapeworm from the intestines of a patient for a few days. This started the tapeworm on its way and could not hold on so well to the lining of the intestine. An antibiotic was then given which put the tapeworm to sleep. While it was sleeping a powerful catalyst or a dose of salt was given which swept a weak, anesthetized tapeworm out of the system.

In "The Puerto Rico Journal of Public Health and Tropical Medicine," June, Dr. M. M. Morales reports his treatment of patients who had recently passed segments of tapeworm. The patients were instructed to have a light lunch and supper and take 30 gm. Epsom salts at 3 p.m. of the day before the treatment. On the morning of treatment the patients repeated without breakfast. Adults were given 6 to 8 tablets of quinine hydrochloride, two tablets every 5 minutes with a glass of water to which 6 gm. of sodium bicarbonate was added to prevent nausea and vomiting caused by the dose of Epsom salts (magnesium sulfate), dissolved in syrup of citric acid and water given in small amounts. Usually two or three bowel movements occurred during the first hour after surgery had been given. After several bowel movements patient was allowed to go home. The second (dead and neck in each segment are attached) was recovered in 12 of the 24 patients treated. Drs. Morales and D. B. Stevenson treated patients with tapeworm with an emulsion prepared from 1 gm. of crystalline barytesulphate, 1 gm. of castor oil, 20 cc. of water, put directly into duodenum (first part of small intestine) through a tube down the throat. The emulsion carried the emulsion past the stomach, thus not upsetting the stomach. No fasting nor purgatives were prescribed. There were 28 patients and cure was obtained in 14. The latter method, emulsion of barytesulphate, requiring no starving of the patient and no use of purgative, would seem to be the better method of removing the tapeworm.

Pen Pictures of Parliament

By C. W. Hodgson, M.P.

On March 22nd, I received a question as to salaries of officials of the Canadian National Railways as follows:

1. What is the salary of the President?
- Answer: $45,000 per year.
2. What is the salary of the Vice President?
- Answer: $40,000 per year.

How many other officials received over $10,000 per year and the Government refused to answer the last two questions. While the Transport Department was in Committee, we tried to get this information as well as how much money was given to Mr. Vaughan extra to pension on retirement. This was refused also, and on April 24th on the floor of the House, supported by John Diefenbaker, we endeavored to get this information. The Government again refused and a vote passed, every member of the Government voted to keep secret the salaries of Canadian National Railway officials except two, Mr. Good, Member for Burnaby, B.C. and Mr. Bennett of Springfield, Manitoba, bolded and voted with the Opposition. Rumor has it that Mr. Vaughan besides a good pension received an honorarium of $100,000, and eight Vice Presidents are paid up to $100,000, and superintendents are paid $100,000. These salaries are all with expense, and in many cases private cars supplied.

On March 30th, I asked a question about Mr. McLaughlin's salary and the return shows he received $50,740.14 in 1946, is to get

Chatterbox

— by Millicent

New Solid Flower
Spring gardening has started and we noticed gardeners were down at the lake over the weekend looking over their summer gardens. One chap found a small patch of green onions growing in the flower garden. It turned out their neighbor gave them some white onion sprouts and some of them were thrown out. They apparently were potted under and this year all ready to go.

Try Something New
Are you planning something different in your garden this year. Last year we planted native and did most useful both in shade and for decorating purposes. It's easy to grow and will bring the seeds in the usual places along with lettuce and such. If your family is fond of salads be sure and plant some parsley.

grew or wooden half-reclining model into three horizontal sections. The lower third—further from the floor to the side of the window, can be painted a deep, flat green. The entire chair is a lighter tint of the same shade—almost a lettuce green. And the top third and the ceiling can be painted a very delicate green. Another suggestion for decorating the summer cottage is to use stencils on the walls. A leafy stencil can be painted over the headboard on the bed—or over the mantel. It will give the color you need. It will save the trouble and expense of hanging pictures.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashby

Q. How can I make an unsightly flower bed more attractive?
A. Cover the flower pot with about three thicknesses of burlap paper, then a layer of colored crepe paper. The pattern paper prevents the mud-colored soil from showing through. The burlap can be changed after being wet.
A. The principal reason that wet leather shoes become stiff is that they have dried too quickly, but when this happens, cold water will help wonderfully to remove the stiffness.

Q. How can I prevent oil from becoming rancid?
A. Add a small amount of sugar to the oil.
Q. How can I remove fish odor from knives and forks?
A. By rubbing a cut lemon over them.

It happens now and then. THE BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES was an example. GOING MY WAY was another. So were the JOLSON pictures. They burst like rockets across the country and millions of moviegoers are made happy.

Another is just around the corner—a brilliant, merciless study of a ruthless "big shot," his morals, manners and women... of the gamblers and crooks who fought for his favor... and the few who risked ruin and sought to destroy him. The title is ALL THE KINGS' MEN. The great Pulitzer Prize novel by Robert Rosen and presented by Columbia Pictures.

Here is a story of mounting intensity, a theme that is part of the life we live... a background of sheer excitement so tense that the crackling seconds become almost painful.

Life magazine calls it "the most exciting film to come out of Hollywood this year." It won the New York film critics award "Best Picture of the Year." The picture is "brilliant... told with steel-like realism and integrity," to quote Look magazine, while Time acclaims it as "full of punch and color... vitality and fire... all kinds of unpredictable and realistic touches."

Only rarely does a motion picture receive such undiluted critical praise from magazines and newspapers everywhere.

ALL THE KINGS' MEN is a vital, very great motion picture. You should see it. Its like may not come this way again.

four bull eyes spotted with brown, the male bird gives this exhibition to let other birds know that he has appropriated that area for his own world. He and his wife are mating. As we moved away through the woods, we heard the sound of a Wilson's Snipe, a rather loud, and frightened "womp, womp," and unlike the sound of a snipe. And then we stopped as we heard the lively song of the vesper sparrow. It was too dark to see the bird as we should have liked to do, with the second outer tail feather on each side of pure white. Only one other bird on the American continent has this striking feature, and that is the Junco.

As we were listening to this bird, an old female woodcock flew rapidly up almost over our heads, her wings gently flapping, and with her head at 22. It was now too dark to watch her flight, the stars were out, and night had come.

A Toronto minister who used the word "screwball" when referring to a minister was sharply criticized on the ground that they have not yet reached a age of discretion. The Reverend Alvin Paris was talking about the Reverend Wilbur Grandall, a United Church minister who refused to baptize infants on the ground that they have not yet reached a age of discretion. He told Reverend Grandall that he should refer to any religious body as a bunch of screwballs. If they chuckle, they must be repented (BUP).

"Weakest Link" in Our Defense System ?--

Alaska's appeal for statehood and her need for more adequate military defenses, including a "lighter" air force, are being considered by Congress at this time. Meanwhile, Soviet Russia's move and more a threat to the strategic U.S. territory. The Russians show how growing mass of Soviet air bases confront the Alaskan frontier, which General Eisenhower called the "weakest link in our entire security system."

RAILWAY RELOCATIONS KEY TO CAPITAL PLAN

THE SOUTH EAST SECTION OF THE CAPITAL TODAY—Most of the area between the Rideau River and Canal is occupied by railway tracks and industries. From this point the cross town tracks run west across the city, and tracks and yards occupy the whole east bank of the Canal up the Union Station adjacent to Confederation Square.

THE PROPOSED NEW SOUTH EASTERN ENTRANCE TO THE CAPITAL—Parkways and arterial roads replace rail lines when the railways are removed from the centre of the city and form a loop around the south and east edges. Above photo of the model of the future capital shows a new entrance for the Metroland Road with a mall and driveway into the center of the city.

PRESENT RAILWAY AND INDUSTRIAL AREAS

Ample Industrial Space For All Future Needs Along New Rail Belt

Abandoned Rights of Way Form Basis of New City Arterial Road System

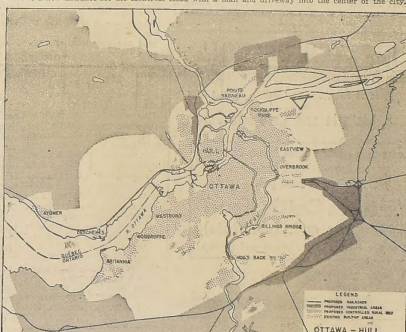

All proposals for the replanning of the National Capital, from the Holt Report in 1915 to the present day, have been based on a re-arrangement of the railway system serving the area. The existing trackways and yards developed from the middle of the last century to meet the extensive transportation needs of a growing lumbering and manufacturing town. Their effect has been to hamper the proper expansion of the city, create unsightly and uneconomic conditions throughout the center section of the capital and restrict the free flow of traffic. Railway operations themselves are made unnecessarily costly because of complicated traffic routings.

Industries which require rail services are scattered along lines throughout the downtown area where there is no room for required expansion or the establishment of new enterprises. Both railways and industries occupy valuable land in the central and residential areas.

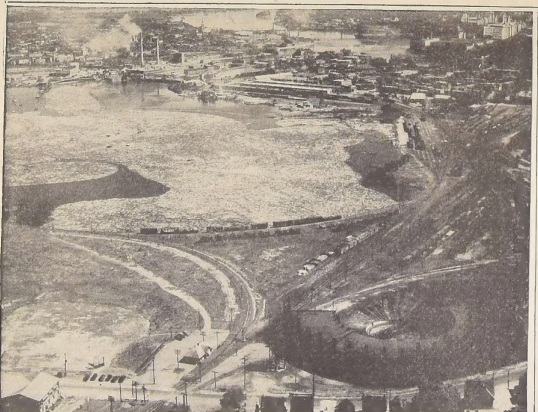

Re-location of the railways to form a belt around the south and east edges of the city and on the north and west sides of Hull is the principal proposal in the new Master Plan for the Capital.

Over 4,000 acres of land along the proposed new railway lines has been acquired by the government for industrial use, and the space is ample for all future industrial needs. Existing industries now scattered throughout the downtown area will be able to locate in the new areas reserved for them, as soon as new rail facilities are provided and essential municipal services are extended southeast into the area.

Light industries, of which there are many in the Capital area, will not be disturbed unless they are of a serious nature. Abandoned railway lines within the built-up areas will become highways and parkways, providing the basis for a new road system which will greatly improve traffic circulation throughout the Capital.

FUTURE RAILWAY AND INDUSTRIAL AREAS

THE ONTARIO SIDE OF THE OTTAWA RIVER—Looking east towards Parliament Hill (top right) with Nepean Bay, center, and the Chaudiere Falls, hidden by industrial development, beyond. The entire shore at this point is occupied by railway yards and a roundabout (lower right).

BATHING BEACHES AND PARKWAYS REPLACE RAILWAYS—In the long range planning proposals shown in the above photo of the model, the new shoreline is landscaped and reserved for public use. Wellington street joins Scott street at the traffic circle and overpass (lower right) to improve the east-west traffic route. The improvements will greatly increase surrounding property values. (Model by National Film Board.)

Maybe you are already in business here in Lindsay. Perhaps you operate a grain elevator, a hatchery, a feed and farm supply store. Or maybe you are simply a man who is willing to work hard to build a solid, profitable business of your own—the kind of business your wife like to leave to your son as his heritage.

In either event, there is a rare opportunity open to you to qualify for one of the few profitable franchises available in Lindsay. This is open to a man with moderate capital. Careful surveys of this market, by experts, have shown that the right merchant with such an opportunity should be able to develop a business of at least six figures a year with this franchise. And, he should be able to reach that level in less than two years. If you can qualify for this franchise, you will have the help and backing of a firm that sells more livestock and poultry feed than any other company in the world and that has been the leader in the agricultural field for more than 50 years. The representative of that firm will help you find and train the right kind of employees—set up efficient money-management and inventory-control methods—contact and sell your biggest prospects—and, generally, make the most of ALL the profit possibilities in your market.

If this opportunity to build a profitable feed and farm supply business sounds interesting to you, write a letter telling WHY you feel you are the right man for this franchise. Give us a brief history of your business experience and include the names and addresses of at least two local business men who know your abilities as references. Address your letter to

WILLIAM J. GARFAT, DISTRICT MANAGER, 81 SPRUCE STREET, AURORA, ONT.

Stresses Need For Expression In Singing

Dr. Parker, adjutant in the Victoria County Parade of Music, makes his remarks in a language that the children understand and the adults enjoy. Any criticism he has to offer is made directly to the class in the class, whether the class is of very young children or of older students. After the last class yesterday afternoon, Dr. Parker arose and called twelve of the class of 18 to the front of the platform. These twelve girls had no idea why he had selected them. They were asked to sing a verse of the song and a few phrases such as "rain-chance" and "blowings". When they had done this, they were told that they had been picked out because they sang absolutely deadpan. They did not tell them this to be insulting, but explained what each one of them lacked. They did not sing with any expression. Then he had another contestant stand up and sing a few lines of the same song. It then brought to the audience's attention that the last girl sang with more expression than the other twelve all together.

He said he admired very much a little girl who had sung even though she had a bad cold and could not get the high notes. But he said that quite a few of the girls sang about machine and happiness without a smile on their faces. In fact they looked their best when they were leaving the platform because they were smiling for the first time. In telling the girls to sing more loudly, he said that they should attempt to do something besides look lonely. Let's smile at them."

Today's Beef Costs More

Canadians from coast to coast are paying more for beef and government spokesmen say they cannot expect to do so until the middle of May.

Prices on most beef cuts have risen by from 10 to 13 cents a pound in major cities.

Officials blame the rises on the off-season scarcity and the demands for Canadian stock by the United States.

But Americans are complaining over high beef prices too. Butchers throughout the United States are faced with surplus stocks as many Americans refuse to buy at higher prices.

Biggest increases are reported in Chicago, where porteriennes steak has jumped to nearly one dollar and ten cents a pound in one month. (BUP)

How Can ?

Q. How can I paint window screens easily?

A. Instead of using a paint brush, try covering a small block of wood with an old piece of carpet, tacking it to the sides of the block, dipping this into the paint, and rubbing over the mesh.

Q. How can I keep my shoes from drying out when away from home for several days?

A. Place a sponge soaked in water in the foot of the shoe, and this will keep the cloth supplied with the necessary moisture.

A. Pour the soup through a cloth wrung out of very cold water. All the fat will remain in the cloth.

Q. How can I keep the petals of adonis from peeling through the sewing bag?

A. An application of equal parts of rose water and lemon juice makes a good skin whitener.

Q. How can I avoid unpleasant tears of water when I am shaving?

A. By beating it with the white of an egg. This does so thoroughly mix that it is more available if taken very cold.

Working Their Way Through College Is No Joke To Blackburn's Students

CAULFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—There are 315 students at Alanna Blackburn College here. And all 315 are working their way through college.

In fact, they have to. Per part of the tuition charged by the unique school is 15 hours of work a week. Since the students' labors help the institution keep the payroll down, there are only seven employees, exclusive of faculty—the institution can keep the tuition small. Full tuition, board and room for the school year is only $500-plus—about 15 hours of work.

The students completely maintain the co-educational college, which is 10 miles southeast of St. Louis. Eight student crews are responsible for the principal areas of work—kitchen, laundry, women's jacket work, table service, postmaster, drug dispensary, bookstore, and men's laundry.

Running each crew is a student "work head." Work managers for men's and women's activities run the whole operation. The work head and work managers are elected by the outgoing officer-bodies, after all students for the past year attend a two-week work heads' school.

The student workers do all the chores around the 50-acre campus, with its seven buildings. They do everything from replacing light bulbs to cooking the food for the student dining hall. From washing the dishes to travelling the roads from scrubbing floors to doing the campus laundry.

Students express their choice of work assignments at the beginning of each semester. The work managers assign the jobs according to these preferences, but they also take into consideration such things as academic schedule. A person with a late afternoon lab can't be assigned to kitchen work, for example, since the lab conflicts with dinner preparation.

Jobs are enticed, too, as the college feels that variety is desirable. Students are graded on the job, just as they are graded on the academic schedule. These work reports form a part of each student's official college record.

Besides the work of farm chores, clerking in the bookstore, secretarial work, cooking and serving meals and so on, some students have odd jobs which also help Blackburn see money. One boy is the college butcher, another maintains the chapel organ, and a group runs the school's 10-acre farm from which much of the food served is obtained.

Blackburn refers to its plan as "institutional humanitarianism." Other colleges—such as Antioch, Vassar, Grinnell, Olin, Berea, Ohio Wesleyan, Harding, Seabury, Ark.—have self-help work plans, usually based on many value lessons learned in the cost of a college education. He says the week-work-via-school scheme deranges "material ability to assume responsibility" and creates "group means of working effectively and harmoniously with others."

Because Blackburn, which was established in 1885, is now designed specifically for students who are financially help in obtaining a college education, the thrift motif is carried throughout. For example one $10 fee is the only charge for the college social.

Blackburn also carries student school year—it covers students' cost of the athletic contest, concert and other social events.

"Higher education must be available also to young men and women whose families are without large financial resources," says Blackburn President Robert L. Blackburn in explaining the "Blackburn Plan." But Blackburn believes the plan has many value lessons learned in the cost of a college education. He says the week-work-via-school scheme deranges "material ability to assume responsibility" and creates "group means of working effectively and harmoniously with others."

Duck Census

Millions of ducks on the Canadian prairie probably would "wade" all the fuss was about regarding increases down in the United States. Ducks, just returning from their annual vacation in the south are ready for the first of three peak-counts held every year.

"Thousands of spotters, using for the ducks unlimited organization, are being throughout Manitoba, Saskatoon and Alberta these days. Ninety per cent of North America's ducks are banded in this area.

Since the birds stay close to their nesting grounds at this time, the spotters' job is easy. They hardly ever leave their own white counting bins on sloughs and lakes.

Later on when the birds are hatched the spotters will have a harder job. The will have to put on the slip-boots and wade into the sloughs to flash the young birds.

"That will give them an idea how successful the season's hatch has been."

Spring flooding often takes a heavy toll of the young birds. Water covers the nests, making the eggs sterile. When the water recedes the ducks return to their nests and try to hatch the dead eggs.

June is a disastrous time at the early flooding is the drought which later brings up sloughs and kills the young birds before they have a chance to escape the drought areas.

The third count comes in the fall

Bride's Mother Bakes Cake For Silver Wedding

Bethany (UPI)—A delightful occasion gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clara Staphle, 418 Commercial, of the Mothers' township on Tuesday evening, April 28, when relatives and friends gathered to join in the celebration of their Silver wedding anniversary.

A program of local talent was much enjoyed, with Laverne McKinlay, of the chairman, presiding. A singing ceremony was performed with George Timms as the bride; Mrs. Mary Patton as the groom; Mrs. Horace Heaslip, the bridesmaid; Miss Harry Whitlock, as groomsmen; Lawrence Staphle, the Minister.

Before the bride packed up to go south for the winter.

Ducks unlimited men do this work from airplanes which fly at the height of about 50 feet. Because millions of ducks sometimes gather on one lake this count is approximate.

In Northern Saskatchewan, last fall two such spotters averaged one and one-half million ducks on a 75-mile shoreline.

These three counts, together with a winter estimate, make the United States, being Canadian and American hunters some idea of conditions. They also play a part in the setting of bag limits for hunters in the two countries.

The past winter's count in the States was not encouraging. It estimated the duck population at 35 percent lower than a year ago. The present count should determine whether this estimate was accurate.

Estimating "duck population" is not the only sort of ducks used. The main purpose is to increase the number of ducks by creating breeding grounds.

In Saskatchewan alone ducks number 100 million. They have completed 35 of these projects.

Land for breeding grounds is donated by Canadian farmers and carries the organization is financed entirely by U-S sportsmen.

Ralph Preston soloist; and Mrs. Horace Heaslip played the wedding music. In addition there were several congratulatory speeches from Mr. H. Staphle, former Reeve of Manvers township and from Mr. Grville Bies of Strathroy. There were piano instrumental by Gerald Preston, Mrs. Horace Heaslip, and the Mrs. Mr. Clara Staphle; readings by Mrs. George Timms and Miss Harry Whitlock, vocal solos by Mr. Ralph Preston.

"During the evening, Mrs. Lawrence Staphle read an address of congratulations and good wishes and Messrs. Percy Preston and George Timms, on behalf of the community presented Mr. and Mrs. Staphle with a cabinet of silver dishes in commensurate plate, and a sum of money. There were also many lovely individual gifts of silverware.

Lunch was served, and included a three-tiered wedding cake, baked by the bride's mother.

BUTTERFAC RECORD

A purchased butter record from a Quebec farmer has broken a 32-year butter fat production record. The animal named "Bessie" produced 81 pounds of butterfat in 120 days, from March 1 to May 1, 1947. This is 43.6 per cent of the milk.

The animal was milked every 48 hours by hand and the milk weighed each time. She started the record averaging 30 pounds of milk a day for the 15 days of her best last April. This rose to 40 pounds a day for May, and 110 pounds for June and July. For the first five months of the year, the animal averaged 100 pounds a day, while for the full year her average was 87 pounds a day.

For the first three months of her year she averaged 100 pounds of butterfat, and for the whole year only once did she fall below the 100 pound mark a month.

This was in August when her owner, Mrs. Wanda Speed Growth.

Quebec, Louis Moore, Quebec. Quebec has a long history of producing a pound of butter for Super Market. The animal named "Bessie" produced 81 pounds of butterfat in 120 days, from March 1 to May 1, 1947. This is 43.6 per cent of the milk.

They say that the use of feed supplements containing vitamins and minerals has helped to increase the growth of animals. This report was made to the Washington State College Animal Husbandry Conference for the purpose of making it available to farmers in Seattle earlier this month.

They said that previously, vitamin-B-12 was the only known factor in the animal's growth.

For maximum results in growth, animals should be given a full ration of B-12. The animal named "Bessie" produced 81 pounds of butterfat in 120 days, from March 1 to May 1, 1947. This is 43.6 per cent of the milk.

ARTICLE FIELD RATINGS The Canadian army embarked on a research program this month to test the best type of food to feed soldiers in the field in Arctic regions.

Men eating tests were held to obtain the individual soldier's reaction to the food. The food was served in the Army's new semi-Arctic ration pack.

The food included preserved meat, compressed meat and fish blocks, and a variety of other foods. The food was served in the field in Arctic regions.

MANURE DEFEAT The Agricultural Department reports that barnyard manure is very useful in the production of crops.

The department says that in a rotation including flax it should be applied two years before, giving the flax a good crop.

TELL ME THE OLD
NEW STORY

Tell me the old, new story
That Jesus saves always,
For yesterday's grief blessing
Will not suffice today.
Tell me the story simply,
In terms I understand,
That Jesus once of Nazareth
Is now my constant friend.

REFRAIN
Tell me the old, new story
Tell me the old, new story
Tell me the living story
That Jesus saves to-day.

Tell me the old, new story,
When I have naught to fear
From this world's hostile
fury

With Christ's forever near.
Now say the world's strife
With its bewitching charm,
For Christ's surpassing beauty

Doth all ill the power disarm.
REFRAIN
Tell me the new-old story,
And not to me alone;
Tell out the glorious message
To men of every zone.

By golden words of simple speech
On silver wings of song,
Through ether's waves let voices reach

To men of every tongue
REFRAIN
Tell me the old, new story
Tell them the old, new story
Tell them the living story,

Secret Battle for Underseas Control Is Hardest Fought Phase of Cold War

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The most intense and secretive battle of the Cold War is being fought underseas. The recent announcement of the 505-hour, 5200-mile submerged voyage of the U.S. sub Pickrel, from Hong Kong to Pearl Harbor, focused attention on the importance of the sub race.

It's mostly a research struggle to develop better submarines and better anti-submarine measures. Many military experts believe that there are bigger stakes in the sub rivalry than in atomic and H-bomb race.

Here's the status of the situation today, as well as it can be evaluated outside the cloak of super-secrecy which both nations have thrown around it:

Russia has more, and possibly better, submarines than the U.S. Some experts say the Reds have 720 now, and are building it more rapidly. Most liberal estimate is that she will have 1000 of various types by 1951, most of them equipped with the snorkel, an underwater breathing device.

The U.S. Navy has 72 operating subs of various types. Twenty-one are atomized, very fast "Guppies," 19 of which have snorkels. Under construction are six Fast Attack Class subs, probably better than anything the Russians have now, and three very small anti-sub subs, 195 feet long and adaptable to mass production.

Russia's advantage of greater numbers is extremely important, the experts claim. An adequate defence against them would commit thousands of surface ships, air patrols and undersea patrols, involving millions of men. When unopposed by adequate defenses, a few hundred submarines are fully capable of changing the outcome of a war.

Behind the snorkel-equipped Pickrel's voyage was the Navy's desire to serve notice on the Russians that America is still very much in the offensive sub race, too.

It is likely that the U.S. has the edge in anti-sub warfare, which is a sort of game within a game—trying to keep our defenses ahead of our own offense in hopes that this will mean they will be equally far ahead of the enemy's offense.

Anti-sub warfare in the Cold War is partly a struggle of nerves. The appearances of what are fairly well established as Russian subs off the west coast and the Navy's recent announcements of some hot anti-sub developments are part of this.

At the end of World War II, although it came too late to turn the tide, the Nazis' snorkel had made U.S. airplanes almost useless in anti-sub operations. The snorkel's edge was its ability to shield a sub from air and sea radar detection.

Now, however, the airplane is very much back in the anti-sub picture. Recently the Navy announced that its Lockheed P3V-4 Neptune "can find formerly radar-proof snorkel submarines at any depth and destroy them without help from surface vessels."

"The plane is loaded with secret electronics gear and can drop 'sonobuoys' which detect subs under the sea and transmit their exact location to the airplane with a small radio. The existence of this plane materially changes the undersea defense picture."

According to Adm. C. B. Monson, the Navy's top sub expert, the major underwater problem now is the fact that our subs, and presumably the Russian subs, can carry torpedoes which have ranges greater than the range of our anti-sub detection gear. A sub can fire at a ship before the ship's sonar can reveal its presence.

Monson says that there are several research projects under way aimed at licking this advantage of the long-range torpedo. He says, "I feel certain that a solution lies just ahead." All kinds of fantastic projects are included in Monson's optimistic prediction, including one which would detect the exhaust gases of a snorkel with radar.

The three small anti-sub subs which the Navy is now building are the most radical and newest long-range developments in the field. Very fast, they are equipped with many kinds of detection gear. They are extremely quiet, greatly hampering the enemy's detection of them. Being capable of mass production, they might make a basic change in the sub picture in case of war.

Toronto To Become International Market Place When Global Merchants Gather for Trade Fair

By James Montague

TORONTO (NEA)—For about a week and a half, in late May and early June, this metropolis will be transformed into an international market place. Mingling with business-suited Canadians and Americans will be turbaned Indians, colorfully dressed Portuguese and representatives of many other nations.

The occasion is Canada's third annual International Trade Fair which will run from May 29 to June 6. A few months later, the U.S. will stage its first such fair in Chicago.

The big fair is based on the international trade fairs which have been common in Europe for centuries. Some 60,000 buyers from all parts of the world have a chance to inspect world-wide merchandise and meet sellers who come from remote corners of the globe with rare goods.

American and Canadian businessmen can look over Swiss watches, Italian dolls, English textiles. Similarly, their products will be on display to the keen-eyed merchants of Siam, Norway, Pakistan, Greece, Czechoslovakia, Australia.

Actually, the trade fair is a great many industrial exhibitions under one roof. The largest number of exhibitors represent textile industries, but there are a myriad other products scheduled to go on public display.

Among them are jewelry from Europe, India and Australia; hand-tooled leather goods from Spain; radium and chemicals from Yugoslavia and Canada; cosmetics from France; bicycles and sporting goods from Belgium; coffee from Costa Rica; cheese from tropical Jamaica; liquors and wines from Europe and South Africa; scientific instruments from the United States and Great Britain.

While no complete figures for the past two fairs have been issued, some available statistics indicate the tremendous volume of business transacted.

For instance, last year the Czechoslovakian textile exhibits did about $4,000,000 worth of business. A British exhibitor rented a booth for $300 and sold merchandise worth $500,000 in the two weeks of the fair. Besides actual goods on exhibit, information booths will be set up by various Canadian provincial governments and municipalities, British Colombia, and the governments of Pakistan and Yugoslavia to inform manufacturers on the possibilities of opening branch plants in those areas.

Some of the world's leading shipping and air transport companies will also take space to advertise their services for handling international freight.

70-Voice Choir Performs Choral Society's 4th Concert Features Talented Cellist

Last evening in the Academy of Music, the choir carried on the tradition of the Choral Society's 4th Annual Concert. A large, enthusiastic audience was present to hear the choir of 70 voices and the featured artist, George Horvath, cellist, who has only recently arrived from Europe. Mr. Horvath is a one-time member of the Budapest Symphony Orchestra. The programme was opened with "O Canada," "Bely, Blessed Trinity" and "Orphan with his lute." In the second number by Schubert, the choir sang the religious song, "The Church of the Holy Spirit," which the choir sang with religious fervor and a unity of tone, building up to the triumphant ending successfully.

Mr. Horvath's first group was highlighted by "Sonata in E Major" (in Movement), Brahms. Fearing with skill and emotional depth, he produced thrilling vibrato which carried over another number at the time was "Toccata" by Pachelbel.

Under the direction of Harry J. D. Moss the choir repeated Brahms' "Gillyard," and later on, "The Dance." Although these had been presented before at previous concerts they were given with fresh effectiveness. "Brightly danced they were" was sung with contrasting well with "Go, lovely Rose" from Edmund Waller's famous poem.

Mr. Horvath's other two appearances were notable for David's "By the brook" in which he showed off his mastery of his instrument. The latter piece being used apparent in Poppo's "Hungarian Rhapsody." Other pieces were "Adagio," "Agave an rose" and "Cimber Polonaise," his entire numbers being the ever-popular "Swan" and "Ave Maria."

Attention must be called to the superb accompaniment of Harry J. D. Moss, the leader of the Society, who has been holding court since his playing, and exact to a degree. His was a talented display of the fine art of accompaniment, and it was following the guest artists "Ave

Fire Threatens Lindsay Home

Tearing the contents of a basin, which he believed to contain water, on an open fireplace, a seven-year-old boy caused the flames to spread to a nearby studio couch, and from there it was a matter of minutes until Lindsay Fire Department was on hand to extinguish the blaze. The fire occurred about 10:30 this morning at the former isolation hospital, recently sold to Dr. E. H. Harvey. Mrs. Lindsay, who was in the room when the fire was being doused, and that the contents of the basin, for from being water, was actually cleaning fluid. Aside from the damage to the couch, says the chief, smoke caused the greatest harm, and the fire was confined to one room.

George Ray and Halliburton began clearing the Thursday afternoon. Shows the fire after the fire.

Pending Proving Specific Charges Warranting Firing

A petition signed by some 80 businessmen in Pavilion Park, presented to the village council at a special council meeting Tuesday night urging the council to retain the services of Police Chief D. H. Gordon until proper charges have been advanced and proven against him which would warrant his dismissal.

It was felt that Chief Gordon was "removed from his office without just cause" the petition said. More than 100 residents of the village crowded into the council chamber for the meeting called to discuss Dr. Gordon's dismissal last week. Many who were not put to get in listened to the proceedings from outside the door. Those at the meeting were unanimously in favor of the petition.

The meeting was opened by Dr. J. W. McKay, who explained that "everyone had been given a fair hearing at the previous council meeting before any action had been taken. Chief Gordon had been called in and he had given his monthly report. His salary had been paid. Mr. Gordon had said that he thought he should leave. He then left the meeting, Dr. McKay said.

"A motion was then passed by the majority vote of the council to the effect that Chief Gordon's services were no longer required. Since the motion was passed by Council it must go through whether we like it or not," Dr. McKay said. Mr. Gordon haughtily co-operated very well with the council, Mr. McKay said, adding that "an employee who always thinks he isn't getting enough money isn't very valuable."

Under an amendment to the Police Act passed in 1947, it was the council's job to "suspend" and "the Police Association was not empowered under the act to bargain with the council for a member of its police force. The Police Association, an advisory body to Police Chief Gordon, said.

"In connection with Chief Gordon's dismissal, Dr. McKay said, 'I was satisfied to have him say and carry on his work if he would cooperate with the council but he didn't'."

Mr. McKay charged that when a fire occurred some time at Mr. Retter's, "Chief Gordon never went near to direct traffic around the fire house but a few days later went to Lindsay and laid charges of arson against Mr. Retter."

"This was denied by Chief Gordon who said that he went to the fire house as he heard about it. I present the inference that I laid the charges against Mr. Retter because of it and that Chief Gordon was not involved in the case."

Chief Gordon then asked Dr. McKay if his work had been satisfactory. Dr. McKay replied that it had been as far as he was concerned.

A representative of the Police Association, Chief A. Webster of Lindsay, said that since no charges had been laid against Chief Gordon, he is reinstated. Charges could then be laid and if there were just grounds for his dismissal they should be properly heard and the chief dismissed.

The council meeting was adjourned and the meeting through to say there is no controversy about the action without any action being taken by the council. It was pointed out that the council meeting of the police force will be called in the near future to discuss the situation further.

Request For More Help Refused

Claim Lindsay Lacks Police Protection During the Night

Lindsay will have no additional police added to the roster this year. This was decided at Monday's meeting of Town Council.

A request from Police Chief Webster was presented by Police Chairman Wainman, asking that an additional cadet be hired for the force, as under the present seven-man setup the chief did not feel that the town had ample police protection.

At the far stands at present reported Mr. Wainman for the chief, there are six policemen and one cadet for telephone duty. Each man is supposed to work an eight-hour shift and have one day a week off duty. In order to accomplish this, it was necessary to work short-handed the first three days of each week to allow for two cadets on duty during the latter evening shifts at the weekend and from 2 a.m. to eight a.m. at all times.

"These have changed since then," said Ald. Wainman. "There certainly wasn't anything to deal with, I'll tell you. I've seen a second call if one were refused."

Police Chairman Wainman first asked the press not to allow this information to be made public but the Mayor and Alderman Butler said they could see no reason for withholding the story.

Cost of having another cadet in the town would be $600 for the next six weeks of the year, announced Mr. Wainman. "If this had come up at the beginning of the year, you'd have got it," said Ald. Butler. "If you can start, how can you get $600, I'll support it."

"We have raised the money for other things not so important," Wainman retorted. When Mayor Lindsay suggested putting the present police cadet on midnight to eight a.m. duty, Chief Webster said that was not feasible, merely reinforcing the weakness in the force.

"We have to do it. It comes up at the wrong time of year. It would put us in the red, and I'm against it. I think you can't do it without the shifts somehow," contended Mayor Lindsay. Alderman Ferguson supported Mr. Wainman, saying, "We mustn't consider thousands of dollars in the red this year. It mustn't be allowed to happen."

Cadets Receive Badges, Awards Here Today

The Annual Chertown's Parade of the 14 Field Regiment of the Royal Canadian Army Cadets, Lindsay Collegiate Institute, took place this afternoon at 2:30. The Chertown's Parade is a "Dress Rehearsal" for Inspection which takes place one week from today. Today's Parade was the occasion of presenting many of the badges and other awards won by the cadets during the year.

The policy of presenting chevrons to the cadets was also observed. Instead cadets are wearing their chevrons worn during 1949 and some of the 1948 chevrons were also presented. If cadets will receive at least of $250 within the next few weeks, this being the total of the cash bonuses won by the three classes.

When the Regiment had formed up on the parade ground, the Inspection of the Regiment was performed by a general officer. The Inspection Party included Capt. Jasper Norman, D.C.M. and Bar, M.C. Chairman, Board of Education, Col. T. H. Sherman, Principal, and Col. J. C. George Bellamy, Alder.

An inspection of the ranks was carried out and the Troop performed a March Past and Advanced in Review Order, giving a General Salute.

At the conclusion of these preliminaries, the Regiment formed a hollow square for the Commanding Officer of the 14th Field Regiment, Col. H. E. Barker, officially accepted the presentation of the Regiment for 1949. This year the 14th Field Regiment is commanded by Col. Barker.

Col. J. Norman carried out the presentation of Crests to Cadet Sergeants and the presentation of Crests to the 14th Field Regiment. The presentation of Crests to the 14th Field Regiment was made by Col. Barker. The presentation of Crests to the 14th Field Regiment was made by Col. Barker.

WASTEFUL PUBLICITY EXPENDITURES

Every day practically every newspaper office is flooded with free publicity material from the Canadian Government. One department or another is usually represented in the day's mail and, to say the publicity material is usually so out-dated that there is only one place for it and that is in the wastepaper basket. This is an interesting point in view of the fact that the taxpayer public has just been informed of the tremendous outlay involved by the government in distributing this propaganda.

The truth of the matter is that modern news-gathering facilities are so highly organized that for cumbersome government publicity agencies to try to keep pace is sheer folly. In the instances the news has been mailed out from government departments has already appeared in the press or been tossed aside.

It is true that the department heads of Canada's newspapers, realizing that when the nation's press desires information relative to public business it will go after it. The sooner they recognize this fact and stop wasting good money in circulating material that the newspapers, the sooner the taxpayer will be spared this needless drain on his pocketbook.

Others Say

FIVE YEARS AGO

Five days was celebrated five years ago today. It was less a time of triumph than a day of bewitched handshakes that war in Europe had ended and that an end to the war in the Orient was foreseeable. This was an interesting point in view of the fact that the war's beginning school children could not remember, other than are school children who cannot remember V-E day itself. And memory fades for their elders. Memory fades even for the soldiers in the field that day five years ago. Incidents remain, but the profound impression is flattened by time and the rush and worry of the intervening civilian years.

This half-decade cannot be called peaceful, even though the Cold War has not burst into flame, and how rarely have personal and national attitudes changed. The enemy now is Russia and Communism. The near-ally is Germany, still, it is hoped, of Nazism. One now from Germany are those endless miles of tortured, haggard, low-lifted prisoners-of-war, gone the day's awful spectacle of destruction and hunger and wretchedness which most men live in the home towns. There is a new Germany coming into being—or rather two new Germans. Some of this revelation is admirable and wholesome. But what are we, the victors of 1945, to make of the lend clanking of nationalisms in Eastern Germany, encouraged by the puppet Communist administration? Are those victims in Western Germany—Even Chancellor Adenauer—to be tolerated with open arms and arms? The cry Deutschland über Alles is deep in the German fiber. If braggers must surely live the dust, there is no assurance they will not, can't, a new Germany and begin their clamor again.—Peterborough Examiner.

No Mention Of Baptism In Farewell

Sunday, May 7th, marked the closing of Rev. W. N. Cranford's ministry in the three churches of Lindsay, Peterborough and Yarmouth. Mr. Cranford showed a religious film and followed with a short non-controversial sermon. Attendance at the service, was deemed by the minister as "average" with 47 at Yarmouth, 38 at Peterborough and 76 at Lindsay. The sermon was based on a text from St. Matthew, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Mr. Cranford, who has been a minister for 15 years, will be succeeded by Mr. G. H. Wain, who will be installed on Sunday, May 14th.

Miss Canada IV Will Try For Record At Gravenhurst

Protesters' enthusiasm Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ontario, plans to try to break the world record with Miss Canada the Fourth again next month.

Wilson, who missed the 141-point mark last fall by a couple of winks, will make his race over a specially measured course near Gravenhurst. He said from his home in Ingersoll last night that the new steel propeller from England is expected to arrive within a couple of weeks.

Wilson believes that the "Hornbros" Trophy Means again this year. His challenge went for laughs last summer when Miss Canada had super-charger trouble during the race, and couldn't get up speeds 31 (UP).

Horn Bros. Bowling League Enjoys Its Annual Banquet

On Friday night last Horn Bros. Bowling League enjoyed its annual Banquet and Meeting in the dining room of the Benson Hotel. The banquet was very attractively set and place cards denoted for each man his table position.

The most fortunate team captain (all men) occupied the best table, according to a report issued by Secretary J. L. Christie.

Three hundred and thirty-three teams entered for group play or a bye to the playoffs, and scored 5,055 points, to O.M.B.A. credit.

Another 481 teams were registered as members of City and Town Leagues, bringing total team registration to 399 teams and the players to 14,890 boys.

W.H.A. finances, however, did not fare so well. The Association, which shares only its semi-final and final game results, received $100 for play-off games this season.

The O.M.B.A. will not receive any more from the Government this year, minor officials contributed to the government, via the Registrar-General's Department.

The O.M.B.A. announces the suspension of the month's program as Jack Thorpe coach of Midland League. The latter club was found guilty of unnecessary money in semi-final games against Banner.

As a result of his failure to be entered the team, Wheeler was expelled indefinitely suspension, with the minimum term of one year.

Adrian Lewis, player of the Parlo Junior, failed to appear at the executive meeting to face a charge of assaulting a referee, and also received indefinite suspension.

Bill Hignance, Boston Bantam player, who received a month penalty for deliberate foul play of a bantam player, stands suspended until he appears before the executive.

BASEBALL SHORTS
Ed Wright, veteran right-hander will replace the Leafs again after a short stay in the majors with the Phillies. Wright, who has last season won 11 and dropped the team number 6, had a good record in the early season but failed to win.

Leafs, no doubt, are glad of any help. Second last place in the league standings is not an enviable position. Big reason for the Leafs' early position are three pitchers: Earl Wilson, 20; Ed Oswald, 20; Earl Wilson, 20; Ed Oswald, 20; Earl Wilson, 20; Ed Oswald, 20.

Graphic Aerial Picture of Flood Devastation in Manitoba

A vivid idea of the suffering and damage being caused by Manitoba's rampaging Red River is provided in the above aerial photograph of the town of Morris. Spreading far and wide, the flood waters have forced evacuation of the majority of the town's 1,100 residents, who are being sheltered in side-tracked railway coaches. Morris is 41 miles upstream from Winnipeg, which is now also threatened. The last piece of dry ground in Morris is part of a highway connecting Manitoba and Minnesota. The road was jammed with cars and trucks at the first of the week.

"The big question now is whether or not we can get a free trade agreement which is expected to be settled at the big international trade conference at Torquay, England, this fall."

"If we do, it will mean that our farmers will be able to sell their products in all parts of the world without restriction," says Rev. Mr. Randall. "It will also mean that we will be able to buy food from other countries at a lower price than we are paying now. This is a very important thing for us to consider, especially in view of the fact that we are now paying more for our food than we are getting for our exports."

TOP U.S. GRID STARS PICKED FOR ALOUETTES 1950 TEAM

By MILTON MCPHAIL
British Columbia Staff Correspondent

Montreal—(UPI)—Montreal Alouettes, reigning Canadian football champions, will have some new top-notch U.S. backs patrolling the gridiron in 1950.

Al's coach Lee Hayman said that three definitely will be a few new American imports helping the players for the Montrealers this season. He admitted the club was disappointed with several high-calibre American players, but declined to mention names.

Little wonder Hayman prefered to keep negotiations open, with other Top Four League teams also looking for new talent to American players. But the brain of the Grey Cup champions was not deterred, and to keep the silver mug in Montreal, Hayman predicted this fall's rotation of the champions, "will be the best ever."

Hayman was confident the other three Big Four league clubs would also be getting for the 1950 season. "Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal are all getting stronger. We're just going to keep pace with them," he said.

"Toronto and Hamilton are really tough," he said, as the Bruins of The Wildcats and Tigers have been amalgamated, and between them they're going to have a real contender. Toronto will not be the same without its backfield, but they're hard to beat and with a new coach anything can happen," said Hayman.

At the mention of Captain, the Montreal coach had a dreamy look in his eye. "Ray, I'd give my right arm for him."

In past performances only, Ottawa may be the team to beat. "The Rough Riders have always been our biggest trouble. Why last year, we had four games with Ottawa and only a point difference in each case. They're not real threat any longer but they're better than good," Hayman said.

Alouettes coach he expected most of his last year's squad back, including his quarterback, Frank Flaherty, who already is signed to a two-year contract.

Two other additions on the 1950 squad are the western gold-age stars, Bud Pankas and Pat Thomas. Both Thomas and Pankas formerly with Calgary Ranges, have already signed along with Bud Cunningham.

Plant American ball-carrier Virgil Wagner, also is expected to return for his fourth season. But mention of the other D.B. players, powerful Bruce Reed and front-line running back Trivette, brought a shrug from Hayman. "I may be a little wrong and Trivette will be replaced in the backfield."

Not Hayman give any clue as to who will replace Trivette? Chubby Chubb, Andy Chubb, Tommy Munsterman, and others. "It's mainly you, will be the job to make me from Hayman's new arrivals."

Hayman forecasted the 1950 grid campaign will be the greatest year in Canadian football. "The country's football wacky. I think every stadium will be filled to capacity there's such an intense interest in the game."

They Never Come Back? Well Hogan Did---

They never come back, according to the old saying. But the guy who coined that phrase apparently never heard of Stanton Ben Hogan.

Little Hogan almost lost his life 15 months ago in an auto crash. The doctors said he'd be lucky to walk again. Play golf? They said "never."

Hogan proved them wrong. Today he climaxed a comeback campaign by winning the 1949 PGA tourney by winning the 109th white dollar open tourney at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. The Monrovia, Pennsylvania, tour turned the 72 holes in 288. That's the best score for a par 72 course since Byron Nelson hit 59 in the Seattle open (year ago).

Hogan did 64, 64 and 65. Over the first three, he finished today with a 68 after shooting five birdies and one eagle.

Hogan won by 10 strokes over Sam Sneed, the home pro who wound up with 289. Norman von Nida of Australia was third at 289 beating alibi Alexander of Knoxville, Tennessee, by one stroke.

Extent Of Devastation In Fire-Ravaged Rimouski Shown In Graphic Photos

Men And Women Look On As Flames, Fanned By High Winds, Destroy House

The heart of this trim little city of 15,000 people has been carved out by a vicious weekend fire that levelled some 400 structures, and shocked residents stand by for the decision that may force them to dynamite the few public buildings that stood through the flames.

So far as is known, no one was killed in the inferno which was touched off early Saturday evening and which was still smouldering sullenly in the rubble-filled basements of the levelled homes and business places on Monday.

Early reports had eight children dead, four of them supposedly drowned when they jumped for their lives into the Rimouski River when the bridge they were crossing to safety went up in flames. But officials seemed convinced that although the fire did make some 5,000 homeless, as away about one-third of the city and caused damage variously estimated up to $25,000,000, no one was killed.

This belief, however, may be changed when a fuller check can be made. Monday a brisk freezing north wind complete with snow continued to tease the remaining flames of the blaze into dangerous life, everyone was too shocked and too worried about what the future might hold to keep an accurate record.

Even with first mad onrush of the flames checked and with help and man-power pouring in to frustrate any further fiery advances, every one is too groggy from a weekend that was sleepless, strenuous and heartbreaking to give a completely clear picture of all that went on.

Caused by High Tension Wires

But, pieced together from the stories told by the soot-covered men who fought what will be rated as one of the province's most disastrous fires, here is the broad picture of the 48 hours that wrecked Rimouski.

Just around supper time on Saturday night, a north-east gale about 75 miles an hour that had been plaguing this area all day snapped a pole carrying high tension wires across the entrance to one of the Price Brothers lumber mills. The wires sparked against a pile of dry lumber—the multi-million dollar blaze was born.

At first fears for Rimouski itself were slight. The Price Brothers mill that originally was fired, along with a second one nearby, are separated from the city proper by the Rimouski River which now, at spring flood, is about 200 feet wide. This would act as an effective fire ditch, everyone thought.

But the people forgot the wind. Picking up sparks on its 75-mile-an-hour breath, the gale hurled these glowing embers across the watery gap to shower the residential area bordering St. Germaine Street.

These trim homes, surrounded by rolling lawns and gracious trees, offered little resistance. Mainly made of wood, they blazed like beacons as the first hours of darkness choked the city.

Then the race against total destruction began for Rimouski.

Four Yanks In Mexico Try Hand at Bullfighting; They [and Bulls] See Not Too Much Future In It

By JOHN COBB, Jr.
NEA Special Correspondent

Mexico City, Mexico.—(NEA)—Four American college boys studying here traded their textbooks for the cape and sword of the bullfighter. When the bullfight was over, the inexperienced Americans were still alive, to the surprise of the crowd.

For three weeks before the bullfight the four Mexico City College students, all veterans of World War II, practiced the traditional passes and learned other tricks of the bull-fighting trade from Joseito Gonzalez, a novidero or bullfighter who has not attained professional status.

All their practicing was done with only a set of horns, since arrangements to practice their passes with a genuine bull fell through. The Americans therefore faced an untamed bull for the first time when they entered the bullring before 1000 somewhat cynical spectators. The only concession made to the beginners was to round off about a half-inch of the sharp horns of the 500 pound bulls.

John "Wally" Minard, a 26-year-old infantry veteran from Chicago had drawn the lot for the first bull. A kicking, snorting, jet black young bull came charging out of its dark cell into the light of the ring, tossing its head and looking for trouble.

The crowd gasped a little. The Chicago veteran coolly made a few passes with his cape as the bull's horns whistled by. There were approved yells of "Ole!" from the grandstand.

During the first part of any bullfight, assistants always go in with capes to help wear the bull down before the kill. The bull knocked down one of Minard's Mexican assistants. When Minard tried to get the bull off, he was thrown to the ground, and the bull began to maul him. It was probably only the blunted horns that saved him from serious injury.

The bull was drawn off and Minard got up with a little blood on his cheek and continued the traditional passes. Finally, he lunged and thrust the curved blade of the sword into the small area between the shoulder blades where it must go to enter the heart. In a moment the bull dropped dead—a perfect kill. The crowd began to cheer.

As Minard's bull dropped, the spectators began to wave their handkerchiefs and chant "torero!"—"master of the bull." They would not stop until the American boy was awarded two ears and a tail, the highest reward a matador can get.

Bob Blanchard, a 23-year-old Marine veteran from Cleveland, faced the second bull. Veteran bullfight fans agreed that Blanchard had the best form of the four. He was the only one who was not thrown by his bull. The horns came close; but never touched him.

MASTER OF THE BULL, shouted the crowd in Mexico City when Wally Minard finished his stint in the bull ring. But first came, three weeks of practice like this, with only a set of horns and an eager helper.

The third bull was for Lester Findlay, Jr. of La Verne, Calif. He faced his bull smiling and made several traditional passes and many unorthodox passes which amused the crowd, but he was thrown and mauled before it was over. Asked about bullfighting afterward, he rubbed a hip and said, "I've retired."

Last in the ring was Wayne "Duffy" Rogers, Air Force veteran from Mundelein, Ill., near Chicago. The biggest of the four Mexico City College students got the smallest bull. He made some of the best muleta (small cape) passes of the afternoon. Once when the bull hit him instead of the cape, Rogers clamped his arm over the bull's head and kept from falling.

Each of the last two boys "cut an ear" as the Mexican sports writers say of the awarding of one ear to the matador. Blanchard cut two ears, for his performance, despite the fact that his bull was not quite as spirited as the first one.

Minard didn't seem so excited as most bullfighting afterward. Wiping some blood off his cheek he mused, "I don't think there's much future in it."

MASTER OF THE MULETA, or small cape, is Lester Findlay as he follows through with a traditional pass in the best matador style. Findlay was thrown and mauled by the animal and announced afterward, "I've retired."

Finletter: Lots of Coffee: No Coffee Nerves

New Air Force Boss' Composure Survives Despite Lots of Tough Jobs

SECRETARY FINLETTER: He shouts only at a tennis match.

Washington ... (NEA)—Thomas Knight Finletter will take a Navy tradition with him into his new job as Secretary of the Air Force—the over-steaming coffee pot.

Tue to 14 cups of coffee a day are his normal consumption while he's working. But if that conjures up the picture of a nervous, high-pressure executive barking out orders to frightened underlings, it isn't the right one for T. K. Finletter. It's a matter of record that (1) nobody has ever seen him either upset, or mildly ruffled and (2) that nobody has ever heard him raise his voice in excitement or anger—except at a tennis match, his favorite sport. He still plays a pretty fair game, too, at 56.

Tom Finletter's notorious composure survives despite a run of tough jobs. Practically every one he has tackled for Uncle Sam has had more than his share of major headaches. The job which led to his present assignment was heading up the President's five-man Air Policy Commission, established in July, 1947. The idea was to produce a common sense report on the status and needs of air power for America.

The resulting report, called "Survival In the Air Age," is now considered one of the finest documents of its kind ever written. It will influence the history of American aviation for many generations, most experts predict.

Before that assignment, he served as special assistant to the Secretary of State in 1941, advising on international economic affairs. In 1943 he was executive director and deputy director of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination.

None of those tasks was easy but he did an outstanding job on all. Between 1944 and 1947, he resumed his highly-profitable law practice in New York, but with many visits to Washington in an advisory capacity.

Not the least cause for the ready stamp of approval everyone in Washington has put on his new appointment is Finletter's virginal wife, Orsibeth, the daughter of famed orchestra leader Walter Drosch. She has a personality that Washington society will welcome with eager arms.

Finletter's appearance is deceptive. Baldish, of medium height and build, he wears a solemn expression on his grey, pallid face. But his sparkling grey eyes are a giveaway to a piercing sense of humor. Finletter was the main speaker at a banquet given in honor of the Air Policy Commission's report. Everyone present was grimly prepared for a very scholarly address. He bowed them over with a humorous talk, as full of side-splitting stories that most of the audience went home weak with laughter.

After his work on the Commission and before his present assignment, he served as Marshall Plan representative in London. On this assignment, too, he did an outstanding job.

Aside from his government work and legal practice, he has written and lectured widely, mostly in behalf of his favorite enterprise, the United World Federalists. Scholarly works on various issues and the functions of the U. S. government are also among his principal interests.

Born in Philadelphia in 1893, he is a member of one of the city's prominent families. His father and grandfather were both local judges and his mother's ancestry goes back to the early colonists.

He was educated at the Episcopal Academy of Philadelphia, the University of Pennsylvania and at Paris. During World War I he rose to the rank of captain with the 321st Field Artillery.

Well-Dressed Man Will Be Pretty Corny

Columbus, O.—(NEA)—If Frank E. Tustion, is followed by a pack of pecking pullets wherever he goes, he won't be surprised. He'll just chalk it up to his suit.

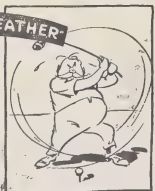

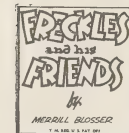

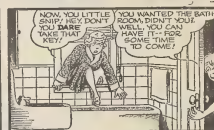

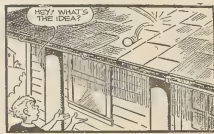

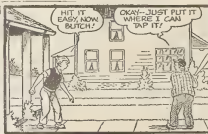

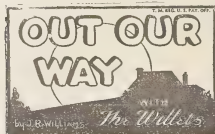

Because Tustion, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is sporting a neat suit made of corn. It looks like an ordinary tan gabardine, but it is 100 per cent corn fiber fabric. And his light grey hat is corny, too.

Tustion and his suit were the hit of the 28th annual Farm and Home Week program at Ohio State University. The fiber from which the garment was made was developed by the Bureau of Agriculture and Industrial Chemistry.

"The new 100 per cent corn fiber fabric is moth-proof and mildew-proof," Tustion, who is head of the bureau's information division, explained.

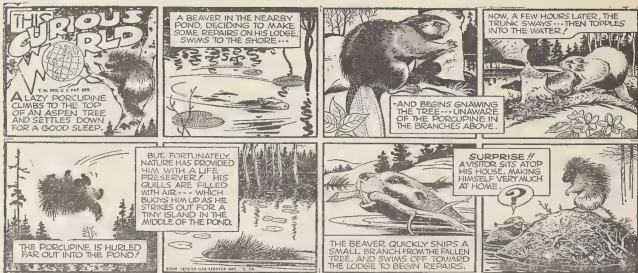

The corn fiber is made from a protein called zein, which is actually a waste product of corn starch. The fiber, being produced by a Connecticut firm, will be sold later under the trade name of Vicara.

He's Bound for City Under the Sea

Treasure Hunter Will Revisit Fabulous Port Royal

SOUTH GATE, California—(NEA—

Sometime this spring, a lumbering tank-like tractor will slowly edge down the streets of a city that has been visited but once since 1692. And, to make the adventure even more bizarre, the city is now under the Caribbean Sea.

At the controls of the tractor will be Lieut. Harry E. Riesberg, a California daredevil deep-sea diver. It was in 1935 that Riesberg, hunting pirate treasure on sunken Spanish galleons off King's, Jamaica, stumbled into Port Royal, a fabulous city destroyed by an earthquake and tidal wave in 1692.

Now, with a costly expedition to back him up, Riesberg is going back to Port Royal, the city under 30 fathoms. For 15 years, he's been dreaming and planning to revisit Port Royal. What he saw in 1935 is worth a second look.

He stood on the ocean floor. All around him were crumbled relics of buildings, now encrusted with dazzling coral formations. Brilliant tropical fish swam in and out of 200-year-old windows.

RIESBERG'S TRACTOR: From this model, he's building a big one to play the streets — and treasure — of an undersea city.

All alone, he didn't have the equipment to venture too far from his salvage ship. But he could see other streets, other buildings.

Back on shore, Riesberg learned that Port Royal was the site of fabulous pirates in the 17th century.

It was known as the richest — and wickedest — city in the world. Captive girls bedecked in plundered finery, presided over tables set with gold and silver. Then, in 1692, the whole city and 500 people were plunged under the sea.

Riesberg thought that some of the pirates' treasure might still be in the water-covered buildings of Port Royal. At least there would be relics of a glamorous, adventurous age to be found in the waterlogged ghost town.

Together with Charles G. Warren, he designed and is completing the tank-tractor. With this monster, he'll be able to roam the streets of Port Royal.

The adventure will be filmed by Hollywood cameramen, in color. The actual salvage operation will be part of a forthcoming movie, based on a book he wrote called "Dived For Treasures," in which he tells of his 25-year hunt for wealth under the sea.

Thus far he's recovered more than $100,000 from ancient wrecks in Central American and West Indian waters. He's sure Port Royal will be his greatest hunting grounds.

Of Protopadakis and His Friend the Agimi

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Effulkes Protopadakis happened to find a baby agrimi—capraeagrus pictus—in the White Mountains of Crete, and "Kri Kri" is coming to Washington to stay.

If you think that sounds like a lot of Greek, you're absolutely right. Everyone in the cast of characters is from Greece, including the agrimi, alias "Kri Kri" who is destined to become a living symbol of Greece's appreciation of the Marshall plan aid it has received.

When Protopadakis found the agrimi, he lost no time in taking it to Dr. Harilaos Hadjicerasalos, biologist at Athens University. The professor immediately said yes, the small animal really was a rare capraeagrus pictus, and agreed it would make a time gift for America. As a symbol, it was pointed out, the Greeks have a special reverence for the antelope-type creature; according to ancient legend it was an agrimi that succored the Greek deity Zeus. And as a sacrifice, animal experts said the agrimi is one of the outstanding rarities of the whole animal kingdom, an item any zoologist in the world would be delighted to have as a steady boarder.

That's certainly the way Dr. W. M. Mann, director of the National Zoological Park in Washington, feels about it. And "Kri Kri" will soon be in his charge.

To pay the shipping charges, Pro-

KRI KRI AGRIMI poses with his captor, Effulkes Protopadakis. The agrimi is one of the world's rarest animals. It will be shipped to Washington as a gift.

topadakis and his neighbors scraped together a little more than a million drachmas, about $60.55. That's a lot of drachmas for those people, but they were happy to do it.

"Kri Kri" is enjoying a 60-day quarantine under the careful supervision of the U.S. Public Health authorities, near an Athens airport. They want to make sure that this gift goat doesn't bring along any germs in his rare carcase.

Like others in the goat family, the agrimi sometimes experiences an uncontrollable urge for unusual foods.

During his first day in quarantine, "Kri Kri" ate two Athens newspapers, one window drape and a 25-cent pocket edition of "Student Nurse."

Now, however, they've got him on hay, grass and olives and they predict he will be, in great shape for the coming trip and the ceremony which will feature his arrival.

The Greek embassy is planning quite a reception for "Kri Kri" when he gets to Washington, but they'll keep an eye on the draperies.

Now Cross-Eyed Tommy Looks Straight at Future

EYES RIGHT for Caroline Gowdy as she performs eye muscle strengthening exercise. As the instructor (left) moves the string fastened between two pencil-like tubes, Caroline follows it with her eyes. The exercise is designed to help the eyes co-ordinate.

SEATTLE, Wash. (NEA) — "Yah! Yah! Cross-eyed can't be on our side!"

For 15 years Tommy suffered while his schoolmates poked fun at him for his crossed eyes and thick-lensed glasses. But now Tommy has taken off his glasses. He doesn't need them. His eyes are straight.

To the boy and his parents, it's unbelievable. But to the men and women who developed the technique of correcting eye defects without the use of glasses, it's just a sample of what can be achieved by a new system for correcting vision.

A New York oculist, Dr. W. H. Bates, gave up his practice in the early part of this century to seek a new way of treating his patients. Eyeglasses, he knew, don't always help. Bates found another way.

After a number of experiments, Bates discovered that vision defects were often caused by the habitual improper use of eyes.

He also found that this improper usage was related to mental and emotional strain and teaching the eyes to see in a relaxed way, a large percentage of his patients regained normal vision.

Since his death in 1931, the doctor's work has been carried on by the American Association for Eye Training, which is under the direction of Mrs. Clara Hackett.

Several methods have been developed for relaxing the eyes. "Palming," or covering the eyes with the palms of the hands at regular intervals, is restful. Blinking rapidly is helpful.

Exposing the eyes to the sun — "sunning" — has helped to correct eye ailments. "Dark glasses may give you Hollywood glamour, but they don't do the eyes any good," reports one instructor.

"Above all," eye trainers caution, "use your eyes and keep them in motion. The lower who starts for hours at the picture of his heart's desire may satisfy his soul, but he's ruining his eyes."

School children, who worry about their lessons, often develop nervous tension which creates eye strain. Once their worries are relieved, their vision improves.

In spite of active opposition from some groups, the Bates method is arousing interest and has chalked up some successes.

A 34-year-old woman who wore glasses for 11 years now has normal vision without glasses. She has been training her eyes less than two months.

After six weeks' work, an eight-year-old, near-sighted and cross-eyed, now has normal vision. Her schoolwork has improved along with her sight.

The best record in Seattle was achieved by a 63-year-old man who wore glasses for 50 years. With only light perception in one eye and 25 per cent vision in the other when he started, he has gained almost normal sight in less than two years. His instructors think he will eventually be completely within another year. Some Seattle schools use the Bates method to prevent eye tension and fatigue in their pupils. A large number of teachers have been able to give up wearing glasses.

Spring Nightmare

Recently in a cartoon a lady told a psychiatrist, "Oh, I just dream the usual things—about eating cake, drowning in molasses, saving wood with my teeth." There are the usual things for many people. Those who fought in either of the great wars or who were bombed or tormented still have nightmares of death and destruction. But the most common bad dream in this country of compulsory education is the one about examinations. And it is a long in the Spring, about this time of the year, that adults wake up from dreaming they are children who have fallen behind in their studies with examinations drawing near. They wake in horror of examinations. And then they realize that fortunately they are not children any longer, that fortunately they are old and don't have to go to school or try examinations. They wipe the cold sweat away and feel deeply relieved at being told to be expected to learn anything.

New Wonder Drug Beats Penicillin

Los Angeles May 17 (AP)—Still another so-called "wonder drug" has been turned up for treatment of influenza, tuberculosis and streptococcal throat infections.

The drug is called Sulmidin. And it was described in Baltimore before a meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists by Dr. A. J. Sals of the University of California, Los Angeles. He said the drug might clear up streptococcal infections in 10 minutes, and that it would do something new being done by penicillin.

It may be useful for patients who have bad reaction when they take penicillin. It costs about as much as penicillin.

Modern Version Of Flying Carpet

International Aviation Building Is A Unique And Very Busy Airline Centre

Story by FRANK LOWE

MONTREAL'S modern version of the flying carpet is a concrete and steel building covering 10 stories into the air and known as the International Aviation Building.

Solidly rooted on Dorchester street, as a new addition to the Canadian National Railway Central Station, this square-topped newcomer to Montreal's downtown skyline is the world's only international aviation centre. It is the one place in the world where an air-minded customer can go and find representatives of all the world's airlines under one roof—most of the time any difficulty, take his problem to the only two international air organizations in existence.

Section here, too, are the new offices of the International Civil Aviation Organization and the International Air Transport Association. These representatives of more than 50 countries are the flying clubs in the world of aviation and have chosen this city, and this building, as their permanent headquarters.

Round the World

But this has nothing to do with being a modern version of a flying carpet, you might say. That it is meant that way can be seen in its main concourse (180 feet wide by 500 feet long) and back around.

There, under strikingly decorated walls, will be found representatives of the world's major airlines. In the world's largest concourse, here is the type of trip that can be fixed up quicker than the time it takes to make a telephone call.

So all aboard Montreal's flying carpet: One of the first desks encountered is that of Trans-Canada Air Lines. It is simply a matter of going to London, England, where you will find British Overseas Airways Corporation is anxious to please, so why not visit Trans-Canada Air Lines first?

Paris is fun, but after all this is a Holy Year for Rome. It is not so every European visitor and ask the charming Air France attendant to book your passage from Montreal to Paris.

Oh, so you've had fun so far but want something different? Well, wait the 80 feet across the concourse and get chummy with the people who brag about the route to the Flying Dutchman—Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM).

They can really fix up something different, and in no time will have you booked for a romance to Kathmandu, Bangkok and Jakarta. Right here it might be noted that Jakarta is in the land once known as the Dutch East Indies and the city itself used to be called Batavia.

But independence has come to that wealthy, colorful island in the Pacific, and with it turbulence and violence. When you get to Jakarta, there'll all you want is the peace of quiet on the city's concourse.

There is a possibility you won't come back. This getting too rich for your blood? Well, on the Jakarta airport is your old friend of London, Paris member, BOAC, so climb aboard and fly quickly to Sydney, Australia, where it is better to have your winter and winter there is a race track for every adult (or so it seems).

But by now perhaps Canada looks good. So (you're still in the Aviation Building concourse, remember) walk a few more steps and tell your plan to Canadian Pacific Airlines. This Canadian Company has thrown up flights for you around the world and will be delighted to fly you from Sydney to Vancouver.

From there things are simple. TCA once more steps into the picture and flies you back to Montreal.

Three Week Jaunt

This 25,000-mile, round-the-world jaunt is over. And if you wish to be technical about the matter, all this travelling can be done in a normal three-week vacation.

You'll spend five days in the air, but 16 of them will be on the ground, looking around the places you've always wanted to visit.

This is a new record, what the new building on Dorchester street meant to Montreal, and here a picture of air service under one roof which cannot be matched in any other city in the world.

There is something else about this new type of carpet, a test run. You can end up in any place from Toronto to Bali.

The world is yours for a ticket. In Montreal's new Aviation Centre, the only one of its kind in any city. You can buy a ticket for anywhere from Toronto to Timbuctoo.

The new International Civil Aviation Organization council chamber. Here the air-minded nations of the world meet to settle common problems.

The building, Montreal's flying carpet, itself. Ten stories springing up from Dorchester street, as part of Central Station, devoted to aviation.

Tasteful marble lure customers here buying air tickets for romantic places. East or west, north or south—it's all the same to the air companies in this building.

... and you'll sit here. Mrs. A. Brown of Toronto is shown where she will sit with her two daughters for that exciting air trip.

The thrill isn't only for the children. This young lady is pretty excited, too, as an agent points out her far-away destination—only a matter of hours from Montreal by air.

New Outboard Service Depot Opening Here

A new Outboard Motor and Radiator Service Shop has been opened at 22 Peel Street, Lindsay, by Mr. E. Wannamaker of Peterboro.

Mr. Wannemaker informs the Post that he has had five years experience in this type of work in the Peterboro area. He spent two years as outboard motor and radiator mechanic in the employ of Copping Marine, Peterboro. For three other seasons he has operated, at Chemung Lake, a business similar to the one recently opened in Lindsay.

He has not yet installed all the equipment he plans to have to carry out his business. At present he has a test tank for outboard motors set up. By means of this tank it is possible to operate an outboard motor without danger of ruining the cooling system or the motor. He has a test tank and compressor for testing radiators and complete spraying equipment on hand to put a finish on any job he does. By the end of the week, an oil-blower will be set up that will clean radiators inside and out.

Before the season gets too far advanced, Mr. Wannamaker expects to have motors in stock for rental purposes. He is also preparing space that he can accommodate persons who wish to store their motors for the winter.

He is going to specialize in outboard motors and states that he is capable of performing a complete reconditioning of any air cooled motor if such trade should come his way. Mr. Wannamaker plans on selling outboards and radiators besides offering a complete repair and reconditioning service.

Penetration

The greatest fault in penetration is not the not reaching the mark, but overshooting it. --La Rochefoucauld.

21 Years Old, Town's Youngest Bldg. Contractor

21-year-old Earl Hennessey, who is probably Lindsay's youngest building contractor, is preparing for a busy 1950 season. In addition to building three houses at present in Lindsay, he has a number of contracts for the construction of lodges in the Bancroft area, a painting contract for a co-operative building at Peterboro, and contracts for six additional houses here. And he has buyers for all homes to be constructed.

Despite his youth, Hennessey has been operating his own business for the past three years, and at present says he has a twelve-man crew working for him. He served his apprenticeship with McPhee and Co., but shortly after completing his term decided to branch out for himself, and since then has handled a good deal of the painting work in the district. This has led to some confusion, he says, as his uncle, Herk-

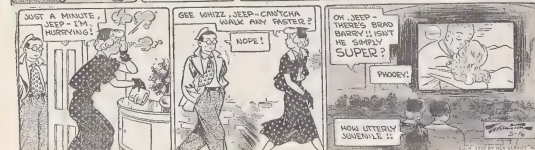

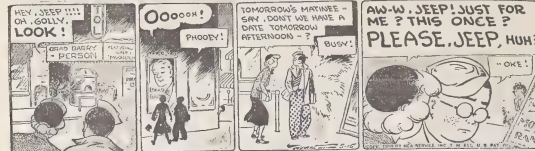

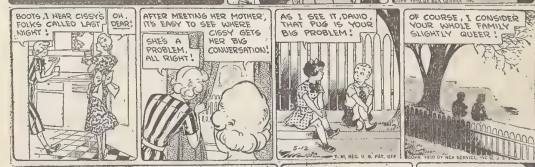

Hennessey, has operated a painting contract service in Lindsay for many years, and the public appears to have some difficulty distinguishing between the two.

Hennessey handles all contracting on his own, and has never had a partner in the enterprise, he says. And he has never experienced any lack of jobs, claiming that he has a full season of work lined up, and the prospect of more if he finds

FLAMES RACE THROUGH TOWN

March to another Rimouski, with houses ruined and wheat crumpled everywhere. The loss of a furniture factory, a sawmill and several saloons points a serious picture. The loss of 1000 to 1500 butchers was no official figure. It was believed that 110 houses had been destroyed, but this was not confirmed. The soldiers were not allowed to enter the business establishments. Soldiers with fixed bayonets made the half-ruined town during the night. Brig. W. V. Allard, 10th Canadian Infantry, was in command of the troops in the order. Many strangers among those roaming the streets and the scene here was even more confused than in Rimouski. Everywhere there was a scene of confusion. The soldiers were in a score of buildings caught fire. The Red Cross drove into town along roads crammed thick with evacuating residents, their persons and belongings. The soldiers were not allowed to enter the city. They piled high on trucks, cars and even horse-drawn wagons. The heat from the flames was intense along the principal street, the main street. The soldiers were not allowed to enter the city. They piled away stores and houses leaving only slender columns and swept rock in their wake. Electricity went out when the flames began to burn. The soldiers were not allowed to enter the city. The residents are destitute. Without extra aid and the help of the Red Cross they would have been without food and sleeping accommodations. The soldiers were not allowed to enter the city. The people who had lost their homes were trapped themselves in army trucks. The soldiers were not allowed to enter the city. The people of household goods which had been saved from the black-

Says Commonwealth Holds Peace Key

Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke of Northern Ireland says the peoples of the Commonwealth hold the peace of the world in their hands. He says the most urgent task before British peoples is to see that the Commonwealth remains a rock of security in the world's troubled waters.

He told the Ottawa Canadian Club that the hydrogen bomb has devastating possibilities. But he says it is essential there be cool minds and balanced judgments if nations are to survive and prosper. (BU)

WIND-WAILOPED—This is the wreckage of three huge coal bridges on the waterfront of Superior, Wis., that were smashed by 88 miles per hour winds in one of the most destructive storms in the city's history. Industrial machinery valued at millions was wrecked by the storm and at least six dock workers were hospitalized.

Enlarged School Area Would Increase Grant, Meeting Told

A 70% grant would be made by the provincial Government if the Enlarged High School Area plan were adopted by Gov. Vardach, Premier Ferguson and Lindsay. This was disclosed at a meeting in the council chambers, Lindsay, last night by Mr. Duffin, of the Ontario Department of Education. He was the speaker at the meeting sponsored by the Township of Ope. The town of Ope says that at present, only a 45 per cent grant is paid and if these new areas were incorporated, the grant would be increased by 25 per cent. "This plan is a much brighter picture of the situation" said Mr. Reads, reeve of Ope.

Ope Township Council is going to hold a meeting tonight, at which Mr. J. P. Farnham, Chairman of the Lindsay Board of Revision, will be present. Mr. Reads said that he thought it quite probable that further meetings would be necessary with the councils of Markham, Vaughan, and Peel Townships.

Fishermen Line Scugog Banks For Pickerel Season Opener

With a sound second "like" hall falling on a rest, several hundred line were dropped into the Scugog here Friday on the stroke of midnight, and the 1930 pickerel fishing season got under way. Those who visited the vicinity of the Lindsay River bridge report fishermen standing visibly elbow-to-elbow, and one observer reports the use by fishermen of everything from luxury quality fishing rods to mop handles. About 50 cars are reported parked near the bridge.

Results seem to have been fair, with several catches of four fish and upward reported. The weather, according to fishermen, was ideal, but several say they left tackle at home and merely went along to see the show last night. They claim that fishing was actually dangerous, with so many boats sailing through the air at once. It was only a season of two days, they recall, that one fisherman here lost an eye on the opening night of the pickerel season.

ALLEGED

A Dalno, Township man was remanded for one week here on charges of breaking, entry and theft, and was allowed out on bail until May 22. No plea was made.

He is charged with the theft of a car, valued at $400 from one place, and the theft of a 90-rd roll of fence wire and valuable tools from a second place.

Men Must Stay In Hotel, Children Being Evacuated

A first hand account of the Winnipeg floods has reached Lindsay with the return of Mr. Marshall Stephens, who has been visiting in the town for the past two weeks. Mr. Stephens left Winnipeg Tuesday night last.

Describing Winnipeg as a "city of mud, water, and destruction," Mr. Stephens claims that dispatches appearing in the press, describe the suffering there inadequately. He tells, for example, of travelling on a train between Winnipeg and Brandon, which carried 300 women and young children to safety. Not of the women knew when they would see her husband again, as all able-bodied men have been ordered to remain in the city as flood workers.

Praising the authorities for the way in which they have organized the city during the disaster, Mr. Stephens says that so far, forcing the refugees has been carried out with dispatch. Planes loaded with food and supplies are being sent to the city from the Red Cross and other service organizations.

Mr. Stephens was one of the first to arrive at the hotel, and he said the following story:

"We will be in the school in the morning. Sometime during the day, the floods will be around the school, and the children and their homes and they find themselves cut off from their parents. In these cases, army trucks round up the children and take them to central refuge stations operated by the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Catholic Women's League, the United Nations, and the Canadian Army. The parents then have to make the rounds of all refuge stations to locate their children."

Flooding is, in some sections of the north, says Mr. Stephens, adding that it is common for houses in low-lying sections to be submerged as high as the chimneys. Engineers survey the city daily, he continues, and where they report a district in danger, no time is lost in evacuating the inhabitants.

Some refugees do not plan to go back to their former homes, or even to Winnipeg, according to Mr. Stephens, and he has been told by one business man that some of the smaller real estate and mortgage firms stand to be wiped out as a result of all this. As an example Mr. Stephens cites the case of one man who told him that he had paid a down payment on a home a short time ago, and had been paying balance off as rent. He claimed that, as it would cost him at least another $3000 to repair the flood damage, he did not plan to return.

An exciting, 100-foot, slide over a flooded bridge is described by Mr. Stephens, who was accompanied by his wife. They were attempting to be rescued from the top of the city another, and after a taxi-driver had searched fruitlessly for a route, the taxi turned to be the only one left open. The army was in control of the bridge, says Mr. Stephens, and told him that no traffic was being allowed to proceed. However, Mr. Stephens exclaimed that he had to leave for the east, and that his suit and trunk were in the taxi. The taxi driver was willing to allow the crossing. The rescue operation of the bridge had been washed away sometime previously, says Mr. Stephens, and had been replaced with sandbag-weighted timbers. By the time the sandbags were put in place, the hundred feet had been completed, and the sandbags were thoroughly soaked, but safe on the other side.

The first few miles of the train journey from Winnipeg were tedious also, Mr. Stephens reported.

Wisely, the Browns had made it a rule to put something into their savings account, week by week, almost from the day they were married. So when they consulted their bank manager, their credit was good. With the help of a small bank loan, they were able to pay all their bills promptly. Now Donny is healthy again—and so is their bank account.

Crested Flycatcher Back Soon, Wise Bird Fools Arch-Enemy

Back in the district after spending the winter in Ohio, Mexico, and Central America, is the crested flycatcher. Last year several of these birds were observed in the vicinity of the lumber yard on William Street North, and although they have not actually been seen there this year, they are expected back in town, setting in the same spot, in the course of the next few days.

This bird is chiefly notorious for its peculiar habit of almost invariably incorporating into its nest part or the whole of a discarded snake skin. Just why the crested flycatcher does this is still a puzzle to many ornithologists. One school of thought favors the premise that the snake skin is favorably impressed by its own frightful appearance upon its enemies. The crested flycatcher would appear to be a most cunning bird, and its nest is usually placed in a cavity where there is little or no light at all.

As the bird nest in cavities in trees and posts, possibly the red squirrel which sucks its eggs could be termed its worst enemy. But how would the crested flycatcher know that the red squirrel feeds on its eggs? The bird is not a very bright creature, and it is not a very cunning bird. It is not a very bright creature, and it is not a very cunning bird.

Maybe, it is just a whim of the bird. All who know the flycatcher will probably agree that it is a suggestion of the uncertainty about it. Its unusual "wisdom" has an unearthly ring, and this impression is heightened by the bird's mysterious behaviour and evasive tendency to be left alone.

The crested flycatcher, or great crested yellow-bellied flycatcher, is a creature called about 1-2 inches in length. Its back feathers are in shades of olive, with a dusky wash along the sides and cinnamon coloured tail feathers, and the under parts of the body are a light straw grey. This, then, thrusts and cuts thin grey, the crown of its head.

Tree Catches Fire!

A call to extinguish a burning tree on Monday night was answered with one of the more unusual calls last night. The call was made at 11:15 p.m. and the fire was at the corner of Ridgely and William Streets. The tree was a large one, and it was a very old one. It was a very old one, and it was a very old one.

While the cause of the fire is not known, it is believed that it was caused by a light which fell on the tree. The fire was very large, and it was very old. It was a very old one, and it was a very old one.

Equipped with a wire net fastened to a hoop and a long rope, Tommy has put sucker fishing on a commercial basis.

Home-Grown Rhubarb Here For The First

Home-grown rhubarb made its first appearance of the season at the Lindsay market last week, and was snapped up by early customers shortly after the doors opened. Selling price was 10 cents per bunch, for those lucky enough to arrive before they disappeared.

Nearly every rhubarb had been along a supply of rootings at 45 cents and 50 cents per bunch. The rhubarb was pulled from the garden in the case of Mrs. F. O. Hough and Mrs. J. O. Hough, and Collins, agents for tractors.

Miller said the tractor agents over four transmitters, Hough and Collins had come to Miller in October 1934, it was claimed, to ask him to act as an agent for the tractors in Lindsay and district.

Miller charged that he bought a tractor from them and sold it to the tractor would not do the job it was guaranteed to do, and he bought a tractor from them and sold it to the tractor would not do the job it was guaranteed to do.

Watch Dog Stolen

There's absolutely no guarantee to go with this new item.

Probably it's kind of a lot of people would be inclined to take with a grain of salt.

Plaintiff's counsel, who has performed a measure of the truth without pain for the patient as well as the dentist.

The R. S. White Company's annual message to stockholders says the new dividend plan on a list of high-priority issues to go away both calmly quickly and rapidly without heat, vibration or pain.

It says this is reduced almost to the vanishing point, in the customer's mind, and that the dentist has it easier, too, because he doesn't have a guilty conscience about such statements as "this won't hurt at all."

Security-Minded
There's one person around Jackson, Michigan, who has given a lot of thought to protecting himself in his old age.

The bird flew across the window of a downtown sporting goods shop. When a clerk opened the front door, the pheasant walked in the store and hid under a cabinet full of shotgun.

They finally flushed the bird out and turned him over to conservation officials. (BUPP).

Publicity Stunt

Some people go to a lot of trouble to get their names in the news—but few of them walk from the top of the Washington Monument to street level—on their hands.

That is what Marvin Byrum, 28-year-old amateur acrobat from Norfolk, Virginia, did today. Byrum got a lot of attention from reporters and casual visitors to the monument—but photographers were barred from taking shots of the stunt.

Incidentally, Byrum broke all existing records for the speed in which he went down the stairs—he made it in 41 minutes and 30 seconds. The next best time on record was made by Glenn Martin of New York, last January. Martin's time was one-hour and 15 minutes.

The reason for Byrum's hand-walking—oh, yes—it was a publicity stunt for a "Master East Coast Show" to be held in Norfolk, Virginia, on May 27th.

Dangerous Stuff

The Child's National Insurance and Children's Emergency fund has an report that women in the town of Poudreville are refusing to use powdered milk.

The reason? Two expedient mothers who tried it gave birth to twins—the first born in the town in 10 years.

Other mothers—the U.N. organization says—are convinced the powdered milk had something to do with it.

Plane Crash

A frightened woman in Sagus, Massachusetts, telephoned police that a plane had crashed over her house—and then crashed into a nearby field.

Three police officers and an ambulance sped to the scene. They found a group of boys standing around the wrecked plane. It was a small, model aircraft.

Whale Story

The town of Duxbury, Scotland, has on many nights it doesn't know what to do with them.

An army firing squad shot 41 stranded killer whales on Dunbar Beach yesterday—but there is a total of 147 dead whales on the beach. They were stranded Saturday while flailing blindly their ball-whale heads into shallow water.

Some 50-60 persons were present.

Siamese Twins Fail To Stand Rare Operation

A grief-stricken Alberta couple are doctors in their belief now that fetters did everything they could to give their two children—born Siamese twins—normal life.

The babies—Beverly and Brenda Townsend—died Sunday on the operating table at Edmonton's Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Townsend of Tofield, Alberta, say they believe the doctors and nurses did everything humanly possible under the circumstances.

Dr. Barclay S. Allen in charge of the operation, says it was justified. He says the children would never have had anything approaching normal life. He says there seemed to be a reasonable chance of success.

Doctors succeeded in separating the babies who were joined for an area of seven inches from the third rib down. But they found that the hearts of both children were enclosed in one membrane cover. Pre-operative tests failed to show this condition. (C.P.P.)

Where Is Lindsay's Lighthouse?

That is a question that is being asked by a Lindsay resident, who on Saturday received a cheque for $14 from the Government of Canada, correctly made out in his name. On the outside of the envelope was the notation "Lighthouse".

The mystery is still unsolved. The shooting of the last 41 left alive.

Now boys officials of Dunbar do not know what to do with the bodies. (C.P.P.)

IT'S A TOSS-UP—In keeping with tradition, friends of Kristina Oeborg, student at Majors Girls College, Guelphburg, Sweden, took her into the air and shout "hurrah" on learning she passed her final exams. For Kristina, this is higher education at its peak.

Mrs. G. Long Entertains WMS

Patricia, The Pauline W. M. S. held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. George Long, with Mrs. H. Copeland taking the devotional prayer, with Mrs. L. Squires at the piano.

The meeting opened with a few words spoken by the leader in regard to the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the W. M. S. of the United Church. This was followed by the singing of a hymn, the same hymn which was used at the first service in 1925.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. L. Squires and the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison.

Mrs. J. Trel gave a short outline of the past 25 years of the Pauline.

She was the president, followed by Mrs. G. Long for two years. The present president is Mrs. D. McDonald.

The last chapter of the study book "Growing with the Years" was reviewed by Mrs. H. Copeland. The closing prayer of dedication to Advance was read in unison and the singing of a hymn, the same hymn which was used at the first service in 1925.

The president, Mrs. D. McDonald was in the chair for the business session. The treasurer, Mrs. L. Squires gave the financial report, and also mentioned receiving a letter from Miss Frances Nanciver.

containing suggestions on ways in which the auxiliary could raise its allocation.

The president gave notice of the coming sectional rally to be held in Sunderland and wished to know approximately how many members planned to attend. The W. M. S. are asking for donations of used clothing for relief abroad, the clothing to be left in the Sunday school room.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. J. Adon and Mrs. J. Trel, assisted by the hostess and Mrs. L. Squires, and a social time was spent.

Independence I never thought my name into other men's portage. It is too broad and bulge of mine. Every man for himself and God for us all. Obedience.

Kinsmen Plan Play Parks Projects

Parks for the children will be the main project for the local Kinsmen Club for sometime to come. A club member told the Press-Messenger.

The decision to continue in this work was reached unanimously at a recent meeting of the club.

Working in close co-operation with the Parks Board of the town of Lindsay, a Kinsmen committee of five or six members has been organized under Ted Kirk, and some men have already been made for projects around the town. According to the club's spokesman, improvements will be made to the park on St. Patrick Street, which the club has already given to the town.

In connection with work on park development, Kinsmen say this work is expensive to carry on, as work on the grounds alone and the purchase of equipment runs into considerable money. Funds for this work will be carried by the club through various endeavours, say members, who add they consider parks are needed in the town for the children.

Janeville (PNS) Mrs. Bruce Heatlip, of Viewdale, joined her home for the May meeting of the local branch of the W. I.

The president, Mrs. George Blom, was in charge and the meeting opened with the singing of the Ode and the Lord's Prayer recited in unison. The response to the roll call was "Ways to Improve Our Village" and there were many fine suggestions.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. Leslie, and a case of thanks was read from Mrs. J. W. Irvine for a box of fruit received during illness.

The treasurer, Mrs. Victor Henry, reported a balance on hand of $30.77. It was announced that the district annual would be held in the Woodville and Mrs. V. Henry, Mrs. G. H. Cuthbert and Mrs. J. Johnston were appointed to attend at date from the Janeville branch.

After quite a lengthy discussion regarding the preparation of articles to be shown at the Lindsay Fall Fair, it was decided to purchase the materials and the members make the various items to be exhibited.

The Institute papers, "Home and Country," were distributed and a bulletin on "Nutrition" was read by the secretary.

The scripture lesson was read by the Rev. G. O. Brumham and a poem was read by Mrs. G. Blom and readings were given by Mrs. Monson and Mrs. Bruce Heatlip.

The topic "Queen Victoria" was presented by Mrs. Beatrice Mulhead, and was an interesting story of the queen. "What I Have Learned from British Women" was the subject of a talk of Mrs. Monson and a poem by Mrs. McMillan completed a splendid program.

Contents were conducted by Mrs. Leslie, Mrs. Monson and Mrs. Blom and winners were Mrs. B. Mulhead, Mrs. George Heatlip and Mrs. B. McMillan.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Heatlip and her assistants, Mrs. Monson and Mrs. Leslie. A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess and to all who had taken part in the program by Mrs. George Heatlip.

What the name implies • amphibious. The five soldiers on foot day placed their faith in one. But much to their surprise the jeep sprang a leak and sank.

Two of the soldiers climbed a telephone pole. Two went up a tree. One swam to a house, smashed a window and drank a glass of fresh water. Is an amphibious jeep, amphibious? Not a sadder in Winnipeg.

The roll call was taken by Mrs. Brown, with Rev. St. Robert's room and Rev. St. Luke's room winning the prizes for this month. After the business was disposed of, the election of officers for the coming year was held. Welcoming as President Mrs. J. Monson; Recording Secretary Mrs. J. Monson; Corresponding Secretary Mrs. J. Taylor; Treasurer Mrs. B. Baker; Secretary Mrs. St. Albin; Rev. St. Blainville; Mrs. Grevier; Mrs. L. Hennessey; Mrs. J. Hoggan; Social Secretary Mrs. J. Hoggan; Mrs. M. Sprague; Flowers Mrs. P. Traynor.

A hearty vote of thanks was given President Mrs. B. Blom and her co-workers for their splendid work this past year.

The installation of officers took place and the meeting closed with God Save The King. A tasty lunch was then enjoyed by all.

Flower Festival

We were thrilled to receive a very pretty invitation to the "Flower Festival" of the Kindergarten of the Recreation Centre, which is to be held on May 23rd. The invitation was created by the youngsters at the Kindergarten and were beautifully done with printing and hand-drawn pictures of flowers placed around it. It was just another sample of the wonderful work being done by the children under the capable supervision of Mrs. Gaudier. She has the most original things for them to do that makes them better fitted to start going to public school when they become of age. We enjoyed their list affair so much we hope nothing will keep us away from this one. One can't realize what small children can be taught to do with the help of the display of the work made by these young pre-school kiddies at the end of the week. The "Flower Festival" for the children are most like pretty spring flowers that are coming out of the ground.

Exhibit of Interest

The art exhibit shown at the Recreation Centre was a fine one. It was really more successful than we thought. Already they are starting to come in and many are planning to exhibit a painting or two. Mrs. Duncan will exhibit an art which will add greatly to the exhibit. The library should be a central place for most people to drop in and it is expected many will view the amateur and professional work.

ON THE HOME FRONT

Good news....
The good news about all of last week's Tri-County Baseball meeting for Andy Widish and his Lakeview players is that the meeting is a particularly unanimous decision—only one dissenting voice removed any doubts from players playing in both leagues. They played on now up from each team in Tri-County to any higher league providing the executive of the Tri-County is informed. They played going so will still be eligible to play Tri-County.

News was started the ball rolling when it appeared to the meeting to resolve the previous matter passed at the annual meeting. This motion prohibited players that played in the Lakeview League and will be eligible for Tri-County. Strangely enough, most of the meeting fell in with the idea and a motion was passed. Frank Stukas of Fenelon Falls said, "Stukas didn't want to see the resolutions we made make for better baseball in the district. This meeting, that is, about the league would be to curtail years players from moving up."

There was a significant intention of entering the Tri-County League. All teams had representation at the meeting except Cambray and Cambray. East group with Lindsay, Brockton, Fenelon Falls, Cambray, and Cambray. Central section with Little Britain, Woodville, Manilla and Valeris. Western will be Per Perry, Southville, St. John and Sunderland.

The longer schedule will permit them to play in both leagues in previous years. A new idea was suggested in the way of a complete league play for teams competing the playoffs. One of the players had offered to put a trophy for this year.

Lindsay had the largest delegation present with Paul MacPherson, Lou Walker, Hudson Phillips, Phil Flett, Andy Widish, Alex Kings, Kenneth and Jack Debus, Murray Murphy of Brockton, Frank Smith of Fenelon, Fred McLean of Valeris, Grant Pitblum of Sunderland, and Grant Widish of Little Britain. There was a few of the other delegations present.

As president, Roy Smith of Segreave was in the chair and handed the meeting very efficiently. From his table he presided over the Tri-County which is in for a good year.

James secretary Phil Flett, read a letter from the O.R.A. regarding the debate Governor's new hospital tax. The meeting instructed him to write Premier Frost and ask that the league be exempted from the tax as one of the teams would be the former. The meeting was very strictly anxious and no one was paid and only play the last of the game.

HARMONIZATION
There was plenty of harmony in the meeting. Joint Association, a committee from the Recreation Commission and a committee from the O.R.A. were present, discussing the formation of a multi-league. The meeting was directed by Phil Flett, read a letter from the O.R.A. will be up to the organization but will receive plenty of help from the Rec. Dir. section. Officials indicated that he wanted to work with any and all groups in the area, including the promoting sports for the youth. This minor ball organizations will travel at the expense of the Rec. Dir. Many boys are interested in playing. Players are being recruited according to age and sections of the town and formed into teams. Help will be needed to coach many of the teams and it is hoped that some of the retired ball players, of which there are many in Lindsay, will come out and lend their services.

Director and ball committee can be set at once. The meeting was presided over by Frank Stukas, and Henry Pierce were on hand representing the O.R.A. from the O.R.A. Baseball Association were Larry Burrows, Jim Mackay Jr., Ray, or Ray, Jim Roddick, Jim Sargent, and Bob Henry.

Up to the Boys
The amount of weather or not there will be a minor baseball season in town now means that all boys 17 years old to play, all they have

Conditioning Emphasized By Coach

Toronto Argonauts, new coach Frank Clark, talked things over with President Bob Moran and coach Bill Buffalo, and warned that 1960 edition of the big four team will have to be better.

Clark told Moran—"It's a bear for conditioning." Former Buffalo skills guard John Kerns, who is acting as assistant coach, confirmed that Clark would probably run and exercise his team until the head begged for mercy. He added—"I don't know how much of them getting to like it."

Argos also received some heartening news from Hamilton yesterday when it was learned that Andy Meris Hapes, ex-New York Giant, was being drafted by the Argos.

Clark said he was playing one of the Tigris in the OPUF last night.

Hamilton officials say they still hope Hapes will play in Hamilton, but is unclear whether he has been offered a contract.

Couch Clark revealed yesterday that he had kicked, Argos backer, who he invited back this year.

The Argos' manager, who is now in the United States, says he'll bring in two U.S. guards and a center, a quarterback and another kicker.

He refused to mention names, but says one back he has in mind is a retired third base player in the United States, with an average of 40-100 yards. (BUP)

English Soccer Eleven Whips Ontario By 5-0

Toronto May 11 (BUP) More than 10,000 fans watched the Argos defeat the English Soccer team 5-0.

The visitors outplayed the Argos' newly formed eleven with passing movements. Individually the Argos' players were excellent, but were out of sync.

The All-Stars back line, team work, and defense. The Argos' center line had all time—plus the United team started fast and by half time had four goals and the game wrapped up. The second half was a different story. They scored only one as Ontario tightened up their play and the team scored an offside goal.

Ontario forwards hit the crossbar twice.

But there was no questioning Manchester United's superiority. They scored two more goals, but were disallowed.

All-stars goals Arnds was the main cause of the count being kept so low. His favourite attack was threatened during time after time.

On the visitors' side, centre forward Lawley was a constant threat. He scored twice and set up the play for Pearson on the wing. Bowser scored the other two.

Death and a Small Boy

Johnny Stibbi Is Only a Memory Now, and a Lesson for You

By Nicholas Blatchford

Death and a small boy have little in common—meeting seldom and then only as if by chance—so it is not surprising that Johnny Stibbi's family still cannot quite think of him as dead.

Johnny would have been five years old this month if he had not been run over by the truck.

That was two weeks ago. Johnny Stibbi was a 10-pound baby when he was born, his mother remembers, and he was 10 months old when his father, a soldier, came back from overseas.

For was three years old when his mother, whose married life had become a nightmare to her, took Johnny and the new baby, Bobby, back home to live with her mother in Washington.

This is where Johnny began to grow up.

The house is big and airy and filled with sunlight. When the Stibbis moved in, it was already full of people—Johnny's middle-aged grand, parents and his great-grandfather and several aunts and uncles who weren't many years older than Johnny himself.

It was a big, happy devoted Catholic family and Johnny, who had a sort of inner brightness about him, became the center of it.

Johnny's mother, Bernadette, is a young, pretty girl with a fresh, open face like the cover on an outdoor magazine. When she talks about Johnny her face lights up and she laughs when she remembers how he was.

"Johnny," she says, and the name comes out full of tenderness. "Johnny was an extremist. He ran hot and cold. When he loved you, he just loved you. He was on the garage coats and fences and in the alleys all the time. He was one complete bombshell. He just never let go."

She laughed just to think of it.

"He was very athletic," she said. "He could ride a two-wheel bicycle with one hand. I've got it out in the shed, locked up now. He was all ways on it."

"And roller skates! Oh, it was windy the day he learned. I was almost freezing standing outside watching him. He was rolling up and down, back and forth, and then bent down, holding his knees."

"Not going fast, but learning good control. My, I was proud of him." Mrs. Stibbi's voice became serious now—serious and intent.

"You know we are religious," she said. "Johnny always wore a crucifix around his neck and at night he'd hang it on his bunk bed. He just wanted it..."

Johnny's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Spaulding, an intense, emotional woman, said:

"He wasn't afraid of anything. Not cars, truck or devil. He had the bluest eyes..." She turned her face away and wept quietly.

"He wanted to go to school so badly," Mrs. Stibbi said. "He stayed around the other children all the time. That Monday, just before he was killed, the sister told me that 'Mrs. Spaulding, don't send Johnny to school next year. Let him play just one more year. They have as little time.'" when Johnny was killed, he came late from the movies.

The Saturday before the Monday

"He was tired," his grandmother said, "and I carried him upstairs and put him on the bed. I started taking his shoes off and then I pulled his pants off and then quickly—

These are Johnny's skates.

just like lightning—he threw his shoes at me. He kicked with both feet, right in my stomach."

"He was awfully tired and all mixed up and I started to say something to him, but he just lay on the bed and said, 'I'm going to die... I'm going to die... I'm going to die...'

"Well, if you aren't the funniest looking dead guy I ever saw, I told him."

"I was so amused. Because he was a hundred miles from dying."

"He would do that for love," Johnny's mother said.

"The more you talk about it, the easier it gets," Mrs. Stibbi said. "It was about two o'clock Monday afternoon when Johnny came in. I was sitting here. I pulled my chair over to comb his hair."

"My, you look good," I said. "Johnny stepped back, brought his neck together smartly, nudged a little bow and kissed his hand to her."

"That was the last time I saw him," Mrs. Stibbi said.

"Later, I heard he had been playing ball with some older boys and someone threw the ball at him and he missed it. Then he must have run out in the street. That's when it happened."

"First thing I knew of it was when Wendell Brooks — that's Johnny's friend — came running back and gave me Johnny's pen-knife."

"Johnny's been hurt," he said. "He by himself? 'No. Some men are with him.'"

"I don't think I asked any more questions. That was enough."

Mrs. Stibbi's father had just come home, and she got him to drive her to the Boys Club.

"As soon as we turned down 17th street and saw that little blond head sticking out of that blanket I knew," Mrs. Stibbi said. "Blood was coming from his head, and I called to him, but he didn't recognize me."

"Mother, you'd better wait in the squad car," a policeman told her. "Is he conscious?" she asked.

"No," the policeman said.

"My first prayer was 'God, don't hurt his little brain!'" Mrs. Stibbi said. "He was so bright."

"I really began to pray fast. Just as fast and hard as I could. A woman asked me if I wanted a drink, but I didn't want one."

"I got in the ambulance with him, and the doctor was working on his lungs. We were just turning down 19th Street when I saw his ears were turning blue."

"He's not going to die, is he?" I asked the doctor.

"All right now, mother," he said.

"I know what that meant. I'd have to keep my head if I wanted to stay with him! The siren was going, but I didn't hear it."

Mrs. Stibbi followed her boy into the hospital.

"They took Johnny right into the middle of the room and cut his shirt and long underwear up the back," she said. "There were five or six doctors there."

Later, Mrs. Stibbi joined her mother on a bench in the waiting room. Her mother wanted to go in to Johnny.

"You couldn't do any good," a policeman told her. "He wouldn't know you now."

Another policeman came up and asked Mrs. Stibbi some questions about Johnny. His name, his address. "Telling it, she struggled to keep herself composed."

"I kept saying 'God is good.'"

Mrs. Stibbi said. "Then I was putting a question mark on it. God is good?"

"What I meant was 'God is wonderful, but what it came out was: 'Is this what He means?'"

"Then I had an answer right behind it. I had an increase in faith."

They brought Johnny Stibbi home Wednesday and laid him out in the front room in a white, anti-lined casket. At first they wanted to dress him in his cowboy suit and bandana. But then they decided to dress him in an Eton coat, long gray trousers and white shoes—"like he was going to church." That's the way it was. Everybody sent flowers and all the kids came over from Payne School, the Negro school in the neighborhood. They were friends of Johnny's.

Mrs. Stibbi's wreath of white carnations was set over the casket, and Johnny's white identification bracelet from Sibley Hospital was on his wrist...

"I really regarded that child," Mrs. Stibbi says. "He was something special to me."

Johnny's brother, Bobby, is too young to understand most of this. He is aware that Johnny has gone someplace, and seems to miss him; but he is happy, the way healthy, tiny little boys usually are.

He has taken to wearing some of Johnny's clothes.

"Johnny can't wear this shirt now," he'll say. "Just me."

Company Goes On Tour To Keep Workers Happy

By NEA Service

Wichita, Kans. (NEA) — Put a handful of labor and management men together in a station wagon, send them off on a two week tour of 17 states and you have the makings of a useful experiment in bargaining relations.

At least, that's been the experience of Wichita's Coleman Company, manufacturers of home heating equipment. The firm has been doing this sort of thing for five years, with results pleasing to both workers and bosses.

This year's tour is typical. It'll take a labor-management team on a 3500-mile swing through 18 factories chosen for study because they're roughly comparable to the Coleman plant. The investigators will learn at each place what wages, hours, job classifications and working conditions prevail.

Their findings will lay the ground for their own contract negotiations later on. The circuit-riding is also designed to draw management and workers closer and to promote mutual understanding.

Ray Sam Keffer, president of the Independent Union at Coleman, 30, says,

"It's a wonderful idea. Cuts your negotiations down 50 per cent."

One year the travelers may discover that holiday pay is pretty common in other similar plants, so that feature winds up in the new Coleman contract — without argument. Or, finding that their vacation program stands just about even with others, the negotiators may improve theirs to get into the lead a bit.

Keffer adds: "We give as much or more than we get. We take along copies of our annual report for other plants to study, and send them a copy of our findings on the trip." Naturally, a place on the touring team is a coveted assignment for workers. Union officials try to pass the jobs around from year to year. Sometimes alternates are chosen so the experience may be enjoyed by more men. The company foots the entire bill.

The firm's president, W. C. Coleman, now approaching 80, thinks the cooperative spirit exhibited in this annual station wagon junket has a lot to do with his company's history of 50 straight strike-free years. The workers seem to think

LABOR RELATIONS are pleasant relations between company president W. C. Coleman (top) and workers like technician William Townsend. The Coleman Company has been strike-free for 50 years.

Holiday Mean Fun
We'll be hearing the kids yelling: "The twenty-fourth of May is the queen's birthday - if we don't have a holiday we'll run away!" Well, that, it will be the last holiday before the summer holiday is over. It is so the fall. You'll find trilliums and violets galore in the garden. It is in the river of the spirit moves.

Swimming Opens
The boys were swimming at the lake on Sunday and seemed to be enjoying their dip. It must be warm now that the water has for one foot in it and we broke out in goose pimples. We expect they didn't stay in long as a time for the boys were stretched out on the sun enjoying a sun bath.

One Foot at a Time
At least one chap found Sturgeon lake pretty frigid. He put on long rubber boots and waded out to do a little fishing. He felt the bristles in the lot of his boot and he decided to leave the water and go to his knee. Well, it was too cold for him and he decided to forget the fishing and the cold which would have worried. We expect the family didn't get about coming home without any fish and rather doubtful fish story. Just like a family.

Rhubarb Drink
If you are wanting a drink that is different to serve the family try one made with spring rhubarb. But the cut-up-rhubarb with water and sugar to taste and when well cooked strain. Add any of your favorite fruit juices from the can like pineapple, apple, cranberry or grapefruit and serve ice cold. We like the pineapple best and pinky color which is most appealing. Be sure and leave the skin on the rhubarb for better color. Mixed with plain the same mixture make a delicious, base for fruit mold.

Wonderful Flavor
Remember to have your rhubarb in a casserole instead of cooking on the stove. You have no idea the difference in the flavor and color.

Through the Camera Lens

This RCAF aerial camera shot taken from a helicopter shows a typical street scene in East Kildonan. Boats and canoes replace the more conventional automobiles and street cars in the flooded area. Most residents in the northwest Winnipeg suburb evacuated as the Red River broke its banks.

CAUGHT RED-HANDED---

Two Berlin youths posting forbidden Communist propaganda in the western zone of the city are caught in the act by an alert cameraman. As one dashes for cover, the other hides his face to prevent identification by police. The posters are part of the deluge of propaganda material being distributed in western Berlin to boom the Communist youth rally set for May 28.

This doe, seemingly standing watch over belongings from a deserted home in the Wildwood section of Winnipeg, is fed a sandwich by two Red Cross relief workers standing knee deep in the flooded Red River. The girls wearing slips boots are, CATHERINE ANDERSON and BILLIE MCGAULLEY.

The little village of Dominion, south of Winnipeg, receives mail and newspapers regularly. However, due to the flood, the current, procedure is a trifle irregular. They just pull a boat alongside the mail car of the train, load up and then sail back to Dominion.

Now the Montreal Royals have a "brother set" with LOU and JOHNNY WELLS in the fold. That's Lou on the left. He returns after a term at St. Paul in the American Association and Johnny, right, the outfielder, was acquired from Toronto in the deal for Bobby Rhawn.

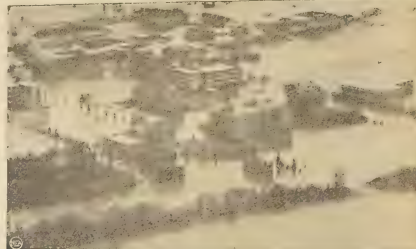

FREEDOM SMILES—Newsward bound after almost 15 months' imprisonment by the Chinese Communists, Hsiao C. Bender (left) and W. C. Smith smile broadly as their ship reaches Hong Kong. Bender, a Marine from Chualar, and Smith, a Navy petty officer from Long Beach, Calif., were captured when their plane went down over Red China.

BROTHERS COLIN AND STANLEY SMITH

Brothers Colin and Stanley Smith, who recently sailed to England denied reports that they have given up their plans for a Utopian colony in Nova Scotia. They have returned to Europe and Britain to organize some 400 people who have requested a part in the co-operative village. Both are expert boat builders; they built the 30-foot sailboat in which they sailed to England last summer to attract attention to their plans for Nova Scotia (New Hope) in Yarmouth County, N.S. They will spend some time in Europe lecturing and choosing new recruits for the colony.

DAMP CAMPUS—The entire campus of the University of Manitoba, in Winnipeg is covered with water from the flooded Red River. As evacuation of residents continued, experts predicted that much of the city would be under water for weeks to come.

NEW QUARTERS—President Truman (standing behind desk) presides at his first weekly press conference held in the new press conference room. The events were moved from the White House to the old State Department building. Reporters must stand to ask questions, like the one in the front row.

This was the scene recently as the staff of the Homeopathic Hospital prepared for the first televised operation ever held in Montreal. Standing behind the patient, third from left, is DR. J. J. CHIFFITTE, chief surgeon, whose skilled hands remove a tumor from the patient. An audience in an auditorium 500 feet away had a close up view of the entire procedure via television screens. Background, right, is the television camera through whose "eyes" the audience saw the operation almost as clearly as the surgeon himself.

FRENCH RIOTERS SCUTTLE WAR SHIPMENT—Near Nantes, France, about 300 rioters raided a slow moving freight train and dumped war materials bound for use against the Communists in French Indo-China. Here, an artillery piece, shoved off the train, rests against a fence.

CANADIAN FASHIONS—At left, new "cape topper" of checked wool with shawl collar falls into cape in the back while front has the look of a short jacket. Right, crisp white pants in sleeveless blouse with Peter Pan collar has jeweled button accents.

Death took no holiday in Ontario this week and the toll is a level cross drowned—six dead in a high diving accident and half a dozen others injured. ## Dalton Farmer Gets 30 Days, Fined For His Misdemeanours

A Dalton Township farmer was on jail for 30 days, and assessed a fine and costs totalling $231.90 on charges of breaking, entry and theft in police court on Monday. He pleaded guilty.

The charge was laid when it was discovered that empty farm dwelling had been entered and household utensils, blankets and clothes stolen. A five year old boy, a teenage son of the farmer, was charged with the same offence.

According to the evidence, the accused had attended a meeting at the C.N. Canadian Line in Hamilton the evening of May 2. Subsequently he and several companions had visited a barge house, where the accused became "highly intoxicated," as he told the court. He then drove to the farm, where he was charged with the same offence. He then drove to the farm, where he was charged with the same offence.

The accused told the court that the next morning he awoke in the dwelling but he had no idea who he was. He was taken to the police station and he was charged with the same offence.

The Crown Attorney asked for a one month jail sentence and a warning to the accused, considering that the man was fairly well off, and had no object in stealing the goods, and had made no attempt to rectify matters by returning them.

The judge sentenced the accused to 30 days in jail, and a fine of $231.90, with costs. He also ordered the accused to pay the costs of the prosecution.

Yuzwa's Lawyer Confirms Report That He's After Re-trial Before Autumn

"It's pretty hard for a man to be languishing in jail while waiting for a trial," Mr. J. H. Spencer told the Post Monday, confirming a report carried last week that an early trial for the slaying of Jack Loucks would be sought.

Yuzwa is at present in Victoria County jail, charged with the November 18th slaying of Jack Loucks on King Street. Originally, four men were charged jointly with the murder, but the other three, the Zahabich brothers, were found not guilty of the charge at the first trial in December. The case against Yuzwa was heard at the Spring Assizes in February, but the jury reached no decision, and it was put over to the fall session.

Mr. Pitt said he had written to Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan and Mr. Commey, of the Attorney General's Department, asking if anything could be done at an early date. He was advised by Mr. Commey that the proper procedure was to make application to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario and see what he had to say in the matter. Mr. Pitt says he wrote to Chief Justice McRae and is now awaiting a reply to his letter, asking if something could be done at an early date.

In addition to the possible hearing at an early date, in being imprisoned for several months awaiting trial, Mr. Pitt says there is the added hardship of the possible loss of some of the principal witnesses.

Japan Is Asia's One Bright Spot For Pacific Stability

By JOHN STROHM
NEA Special Correspondent
Tokyo — (NEA) — Japan is the brightest spot today in all Asia.
Coming here from countries like India, Pakistan, Siam, Indonesia and Indo-China, the traveller is struck by two facts:

The Japanese work harder, longer and more efficiently than any other Asiatics except the Chinese.

Compared with the blacksmith chop industry found in most Southeast Asia, the well-developed industrial machine here makes Japan look like the America of the Pacific.

From General MacArthur on down, I heard the conviction that this country, headed at last down a truly democratic course, can be relied upon to harness its industrial power to Southeast Asia's economy and put the entire region on a self-supporting plane.

After an hour-long interview with MacArthur, I came away with the impression that Japan can be a great force for peace, and stability in the Pacific.

Japan's pre-war "co-prosperity sphere for Asia" had the same announced goal of a closely-knit southeastern economy. It would have been sound, the general believes, had it been operated as a two-way street instead of a one-way route, serving Japan's power-mad military leaders.

The link is a natural one. Japan must import raw materials and a fourth of its food. Southeast Asia can supply these wants in return for machinery and factory products it sorely needs to achieve a more stable life.

There's proof that this ambitious plan is practical: It's already working on a limited scale. Japan has concluded barter deals with India, Pakistan, Siam, and others. More air, shaping up and MacArthur has lent his blessing by authorizing trade missions to various spots.

But, as I had learned elsewhere on my trip across southern Asia, there's a necessary prelude to full-blown trading between Japan and the others. First, the Communists' advance into the Southeast must be broken. Only when the Reds are stopped can the region be free to pour all its energies into recovery.

Weaving Japan into the southeastern economic fabric has this promising angle for us, too: it would take a billion-dollar load off the U.S. taxpayer's back. Last year Japan cost us half a billion, and we loaned Indonesia $100,000,000. Now Burma wants $50,000,000 for "general rehabilitation."

Japan's industrial comeback is deeper than mere economics. I found a complete about-face in attitude, as compared with the beligerency I noted on a trip just before the war. Then arrogant Jap soldiers followed me around; twice I was arrested as I walked through rural areas with my camera.

This time an American officer who has lived there four years told me "Even if we were to leave here tomorrow, I'm convinced Japan would never turn back from the democratic road she's following now."

I asked the mayor of a small village north of Tokyo how he was elected. "I campaigned for a democratic Japan," he replied. "I promised the people 'I'll be your servant, not your master.'"

One observer told me:

"Like all Orientals, the Japanese despise a loser, and admire a winner. So they were prepared to examine the U.S. to see what made us tick, how we came to win. We have opened to them a vast vista of decency and justice, a better way of life."

In contrast, Communism is losing ground in Japan today. Moscow has ordered Jap Reds to forget about trying to take over the government legally, to work instead to influence "front" groups with the aim of getting the U.S. Army out of the country.

MacArthur has proposed that the Communist Party be banned, and Japanese reaction was reported favorable.

An official in MacArthur's command told me: "If the Japs agree on any one thing, it's their hatred and fear of Russia. They recoil from the doctrine of Communism."

MacArthur himself believes the Japanese are, now the world's greatest pacifists. In southern war they went neutrally. Victims of the first atomic bombs and of fire raids that killed 75,000 in a single night, they know war at its worst.

The Japanese have, enough to do just keeping alive. Some $2,000,000 are crammed into islands less than the size of California, which has 10,000,000. Jap population climbs a million and a half a year.

Only 16 per cent of the land can be farmed. The Japanese, hand-cultivate the soil to get the best possible crops of food. Their 75-bushel-per-acre rice yields are the world's highest. They sometimes cultivate patches no bigger than a handkerchief. And men even carry soil on their backs up steep mountainides, to create terraced plots on rocky cliffs.

All Illustrations by JOHN STROHM

With all this labor Japan still can produce only three-fourth of the food it needs. Since the war the U.S. has shipped in more than $1,000,000,000 worth. The American taxpayer must dig down to pay a $100,000,000 food bill this year. That's why the American officials I talked to here are so hopeful Japan can tap Southeast Asia for its foodstuffs.

Some of the cheerful signs called to my notice:

A $90,000,000 barter with Siam, the latter getting railroad cars and machinery in return for 300,000 tons of rice, soybeans and sesame seed; a $80,000,000 deal with India, swapping Jap machinery and manufactured goods for Indian cotton, jute, oil seeds and iron ore; and a $30,000,000 Pakistani trade of hemp, jute, wool and hides for Japanese cotton textiles, knitting machinery, bicycles and chemicals.

Right; now India is looking for 150 Japanese technical experts in such fields as engineering, textiles and glass manufacture. It has hired other specialists to help advance its own industrial growth.

A few enthusiasts even suggested to me that Japan some day might have a sort of Point Four program of its own for development of backward lands. Japan grows four or five times as much rice per acre as do Burma, Siam and Indo-China. A Jap farm expert said: "We could help these nations boost their production with fertilizer, farm machinery and know-how."

But Japan's path to a key role in Southeast Asia won't be flower-strewn. Asiatics who felt the heel of the Japanese army don't forget quickly. The Japs left a trail of hate through many lands. A Dutch importer who was lost by his thumbs in a Jap prison camp while a fire was set under his feet, bitterly protests "Japanese economic penetration of Indonesia."

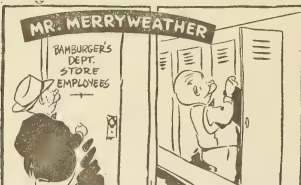

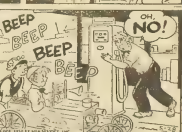

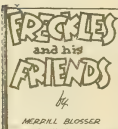

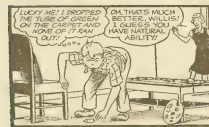

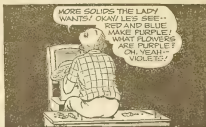

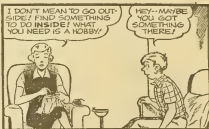

Neither the Dutch nor the British and French can be expected to take too kindly to the idea of the former Jap enemy taking over markets in southeastern nations that have been good customers for the West.

Yet it's the United States which must pay the freight if these countries don't set on a self-supporting basis. And top American authorities here make it plain they believe Japan is the motive force that can put Southeast Asia in business for itself.

YOUNG DEMOCRACY: Too young to remember pre-war imperialism, Japanese children like these appear destined to grow up along a new democratic road, U.S. observers are convinced.

Politician

Politicians probably will want to enshrine a certain Chicago psychologist in the Hall of Fame when they learn what he has to say about

Dr. George Hartman says a typical politician is bigger, stronger, better looking, healthier and smarter than his followers. Hartman, a professor at Roosevelt College in Chicago, told the city club that there is no more corruption or that there is no more corruption or waste in government than in private business. In fact, he said, results of a survey showed that most graft in politics seemed to result from some effort on the part of business groups to get special favors by bribery.

But most people don't agree with Hartman. He says more than half of the people surveyed in a nationwide survey describe a politician as a "grafter, schemer", and in even more uncomplimentary terms.

Here are five more currently popular songs to judge yourself on: "My Foolish Heart", "If I Knew You Were Coming," "C'est Si Bon," "Chug-a-Lug", and "Sentimental

If you buy the majority of those tunes, you're pretty young, no matter what your birth certificate says. As a matter of fact, Doc Miller says those who rack up five approvals

He says there's one odd thing about our current favorites -- a situation also reflected in today's list of best seller books -- and that's the emphasis on good cheer. "Take 'Knew you were coming,' he says

They're all the chin-up and keep smiling kind of songs."

Miller believes folks who like none of those songs are grouches who ought to be shaken out of their misery. On the other hand, if you like 'em all, you may be too much of an escapist.

As a matter of fact, Doc says the music business is giving youngster a tough time right now. Most of the big song hits are aimed at middle aged groups. He says the list of popular record albums reveals the fact, with "South Pacific" in front, followed by "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Way down in fourth place comes a set of songs by Billy Eckstine which could be considered fare for the bobby soxers.

Flood Pictures

The Winnipeg flood has destroyed or washed away such belongings of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Ferro, of St. Adolphe, as a washing machine, a radio and a chest-of-drawers. Of much greater concern to them than these losses, however, was the disappearance of an outfit of First Communion clothing for their children. Yvette, 5; Denise, 4; Marcel, 3; and Rita, who is a year old. They have found temporary shelter in Portage la Prairie. Families like the Ferrons can be helped through contributions to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, Winnipeg. All banks in Canada will accept donations.

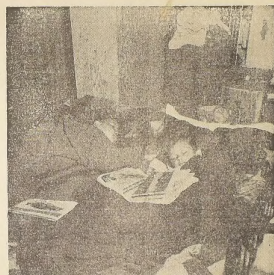

Homeless and overwrecks cats, pitiful victims of the Manitoba floods, stare out of the Humane Society shelter window while waiting for their owners to come and claim them. Hundreds of such pets were abandoned by fleeing householders during the flood disaster, and the Humane Society is doing everything in its power to bring them in and care for them until the flood crisis is over. Humane Society officials hope that as soon as the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund enables flood victims to re-establish their homes, those who have lost pets will be able to claim them.

Visiting headquarters of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund in Winnipeg on Monday morning, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent chats with H. W. Manning, General Chairman of the Fund. He is shown handing Mr. Manning a statement in which he expressed unqualified approval and support of the work of the Fund.

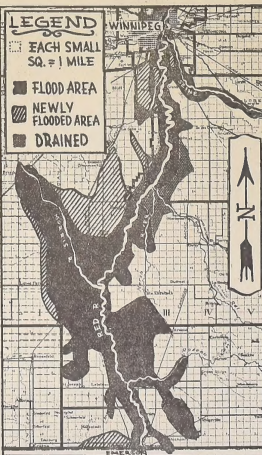

From Headingley, Manitoba, comes a story of wholesome generosity shown by Mrs. Jack Keith in housing a whole family of Japanese flooded out from their home in St. Vital. Mrs. Nancho Watanabe, whose husband is working on the docks near Winnipeg, was taken in with her eight children, ranging in age from 16 years to a year and a half, and cared for along with a St. Boniface couple, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Givens.

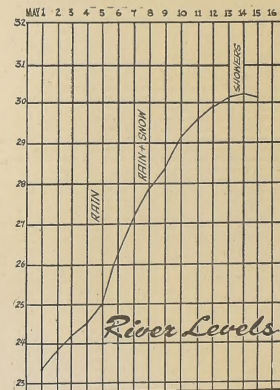

The people of Portage la Prairie are working around the clock to provide the basic necessities and some of the comforts of normal living for hundreds of refugees from the Winnipeg flood. Bobby and Zennie, sons of Mrs. Nick Marchuk, Fort Garry, are seen here in their new sleeping quarters. The basement of the Presbyterian Church in Portage. Generous donations to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund will ensure their rehabilitation. Contributions may be addressed to the Fund in Winnipeg, or paid into any Canadian Bank.

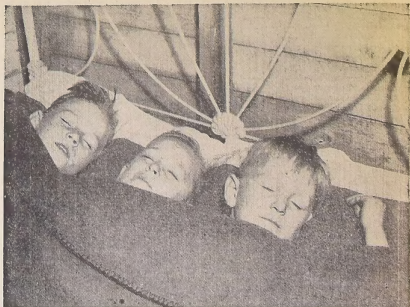

Gerline Taylor, 5, selflessly shares a doughnut with her sister Randa, 3. Their home at 41 Ferner Ave., St. Vital, has been inundated by the Red River, and now they are living in a cottage provided rent-free by an equally selfless cottage owner at Winnipeg Beach. Their rehabilitation is the task of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. Contributions may be addressed, directly to the Fund in Winnipeg or paid into any bank in Canada.

Above is a map of Greater Winnipeg showing the districts and suburbs which have been inundated by the flood waters of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers. One eighth of Winnipeg is now under water, but this area is only a fraction of the 600 square miles of Southern Manitoba, ravaged by the flood. The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund has been established in Winnipeg to help flood victims whose furniture and personal belongings were lost, and its funds will go into operation as soon as the flood waters subside.

The huge rise in Manitoba's rampaging Red River is graphically shown in this chart which covers the month of May. But a cold graph can't begin to convey the misery and suffering thousands of people have gone through during the past three weeks. To help all flood victims, the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund has been organized in Winnipeg with an objective of $10,000,000. The Fund will buy clothing, furniture and personal effects for those unfortunate people who will need a helping hand once they are able to return to their homes.

A haven in how to make the best of a bad situation is illustrated by the placid faces of these three youngsters, who have found temporary refuge from the Winnipeg flood in a cottage at Winnipeg Beach. The Roberts boys, Louis 12, Leonard 9 and Donald 4, were evacuated from their St. Vital home after the water rose to cover the ground floor in less than an hour. Their plight will be alleviated by the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. Contributions may be mailed directly to the Fund in Winnipeg or paid into any Bank in Canada.
